Post to Print Names Of Juvenile Lawbreakers

SHARING the widespread concern over the continuing upsurge in juvenile crime and juvenile disrespect for the law, beginning on September 1, The Times will start an experimental policy of disclosing the names of juveniles arrested for crimes against persons and property. The names of parents will also be disclosed.

There is growing belief in many quarters, both in California and other states, that the publicizing of the names of juvenile wrong-doers may prove helpful as a deterrent to crime at lower age levels. It is contended that immunity from exposure for young lawbreakers breeds more contempt for the law and encourages them in wrongful acts damaging to innocent persons and the public property and welfare.

The decision of The Times to begin publication of the names of juveniles so apprehended, will test this belief. It is a decision that was not lightly reached and has been under consideration for several years. Many police officers, probation workers and jurists, some of whom hold opposite opinions, have been consulted before deciding upon this policy.

Own Moral Fiber Instrumental In Deterring Teen's Drug Use

By GEORGE GOLDING

Teen-agers are well aware that adults do not have ready information to back up the claim that marijuana is harmful, and if the teeners don't use it, that's probably only because they don't want to.

Those are two conclusions drawn from reports made last week by the fact-finding subcommittee of the San Mateo County Narcotics Inquiry committee.

Even in the case of drugs for which there is adequate information available, LSD, heroin, glue, and the horde of pep pills and stimulants, the reasons for non-using are likely to be the teen-agers' own motives.

In all categories, the majority of 84 teen-agers representing every high school in San Mateo County indicated that if they did not use drugs, it was mostly due to their own moral code, or due to fear of physical damage to their bodies or minds.

Regarding the use of heroin, for instance, none of the 84 would admit having ever tried it, and 55 per cent said their reluctance had been due to their private code of morals and to fear of the physical consequences.

Glue sniffing was responded to in almost the same proportions and manner, except that the teeners agreed that "only eighth graders" or younger children tried glue.

In case of marijuana use, however, 37 per cent admitted having tried it one or more times. Among those who had not, 53 youngsters (47 per cent), said they resisted the drug due to their own moral judgment.

Twenty-five per cent of the non-users said they refrained from fear of possible physical damage, or from fearing the law.

Only 15 per cent resisted the drug due to the influence of their parents.

This was another consistent factor in the reports, except in regards to stimulating drugs, the influence of parents was always the least effective.

Parental influence was admitted by 21 per cent of the heroin anti-users, 20 per cent of those resisting LSD, about 17 per cent of those refraining from trying stimulants, about 14 per cent of those objecting to sedatives, and about 12 per cent of those refusing glue sniffing.

Among all the categories of drugs, too, they generally admitted that the law had about the same or slightly more influence on them than their parents.

In carefully anonymous open interviews, the youngsters said marijuana is readily available around every high school in the country.

Their estimates of its use was notably inaccurate, with the teens' own guesses ranging from as low as two, to as high as 95 per cent.

Ernest Hickson, high school principal who acted as chairman for the fact committee, told a gathering of newsmen that 21.4 per cent of the interview group admitting trying LSD, that 16.7 per cent had tried stimulating drugs, and that 22.6 per cent had tried sedatives.

Most startling, he said, was that 90.5 per cent of the group admitted having used alcohol one or more times.

The eight youngsters who had

Judge Becker Urged For Superior Court

Shirley Enters Contest

By LIN DAY

Shirley Temple Black broke her six-week silence Tuesday and announced she would run for Congress.

Speaking to what was perhaps the largest press conference ever held in San Mateo County, she said she would campaign against the administration and its policies.

"Little Shirley Temple is not running," she said, "I have lived here for more than 13 years and they know me as I am today."

The press attendants included banks of television and news reel cameras extending from wall to wall in the Villa Chartier's Winchester Room.

The applause that greeted many of the former film star's statements was so great that three times the political correspondent of a San Francisco newspaper rose to request that it be halted so he could hear the answers to questions.

Mrs. Black, who said that she had been asked to run for Congress on Easter Sunday by the late Representative Arthur Younger, said that she had at first thought that Senator Richard Dolwig "might be persuaded to run."

"But Senator Dolwig declined . . . since then I have been giving the subject my most careful consideration.

"I sincerely ask the citizens of this congressional district to give me their help and their votes in November."

The now 39-year-old housewife and social figure then declared:

"This will be an up-hill effort. I am starting late. There are already ten men in the race and they have their campaigns well under way.

"I will need the hands and

D.C. Asks Reagan Appoint

The Daly City council has sent a letter to Governor Reagan strongly endorsing municipal Judge Charles Becker for one of the two upcoming superior court judgeships expected to be appointed early next month.

The letter "respectfully urged" the governor to consider Judge Becker for the seat which will, hopefully, be located in Daly City.

Judge Becker has presided over the Northern Judicial District Court for the past nine years and is considered the Republican most likely to be appointed to the new seat.

In a resolution adopted at Monday's regular session, the council said Judge Becker has been a resident of Daly City while presiding over the court and "has rendered justice to all with dignity, compassion and understanding."

A bill, authored by Assemblyman Leo Ryan, was signed into law last week by Governor Reagan creating two new judgeships for San Mateo County.

Daly City officials have been seeking to establish the court in their city to serve the North County, along with a County Service Center.

All employes of the Jefferson High School District — teachers and non-teachers alike — have been granted a four per cent across-the-board salary increase.

In addition, district trustees Monday night approved "extra pay for extra work" for not only coaches, but advisors for speech and drama, GAA, clubs, and publications as well.

As in the past, the extra pay proposal — won by the coaching staffs in the district last year — was an explosive issue that still appears not to satisfy many, even in expanded form.

The discussion seemed to take hours before trustee action finally was taken — indeed, it dominated a great portion of the 3-hour-45-minute session in the district's Daly City offices.

Last year, coaches were triumphant, winning an off-the-field verdict that saw some $40,000 spread among major sport mentors — head coaches got $660 for 110 hours of extra-curricular time, pre-computed on a $6 hourly rate, for instance.

When district coaches' association urged renewal of the then-one-year pact, other teacher organizations, as well as some individuals, meaning club advisors, rebelled and cautioned trustees that continuation of the extra pay principle for coaches only would result in great demoralization among those other teachers who spend extra time of one type or another with students or in classroom preparation.

It appeared a full-scale "war" could develop over the testy

A New School In S.S.F.

South San Francisco Unified School District trustees voted acceptance of the new Skyline Elementary School Monday, and scheduled a formal dedication and open house at the new facility October 5.

The new school, completed at a cost of $597,000, will accomodate 300 students this year.

In other business at Monday's board meeting, trustees established schedules setting school hours for the same periods operated last year, and re-established school lunch prices at 35 cents and 40 cents for junior high and elementary students.

The charges for milk in the junior high and elementary schools will remain at five cents per half-pint. The milk price was increased from five cents to six cents per half-pint for high school students.

A purchase order for typing tables was awarded to Teaching Aids, Inc., of Long Beach. The firm's bid of $2,220 was the lowest entered on the equipment.

Whitmore Wins Support

The entire membership of the South San Francisco city council, including four Democrats has announced endorsement of Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore's candidacy for Congress and promised all out support in his campaign.

The special primary election to fill the vacant Congressional seat of the late J. Arthur Younger will be held November 14. Whitmore is a Republican.

Speaking for the individual council members in their unprecedented action, Mayor Patrick E. Ahern said, "The Congressional race is of such importance that the members of the council have set their partisan political feelings aside in order to help elect Earl Whitmore, the only candidate with a record of public service to the people of San Mateo County."

The South San Francisco city council is made up of one Republican, Andrew Rocca, and four Democrats, Guido Rozzi, Frank Bertucelli, Emilio Cortesi and Ahern.

Ahern continued, "Earl Whitmore is not only a known quantity after 17 years of public service, and a man who has been constantly attentive to San Mateo County's problems, but he has also demonstrated that he knows how to get the job done."

"Whitmore is a consistent winner whose record of performance has merited the support of county voters in five elections over a period of 17 years," Ahern added. "His average vote has been nearly 75 per cent in each election," he said.

"He has long indicated his concern for the special issues facing North San Mateo County, particularly in his understanding of the overwhelming problems related to airport jet noise for which he has long advocated some control. Whitmore also has a keen understanding of vital county issues as they relate to South San Francisco," he said.

Ahern named flood control, harbor development and transportation as particular areas of concern to Whitmore in the North County.

"It's encouraging to find that, over the years, a tremendous reservoir of grass-roots support has developed around Whitmore, and we expect to help organize this support for maximum use in the coming weeks of the campaign," Ahern said.

A fully staffed North County office for Whitmore has been established in Daly City. However, Ahern pointed out that "it may be necessary to set up a South San Francisco headquarters in order to take full advantage of the spontaneous help that is being offered."

He observed, "Even experienced politicos are amazed to see the overwhelming support that is coming to Whitmore from every sector of the County, including industry, labor, business and the professions."

D.C. COUNCIL

Convalescent Hospital OKd

The Daly City Council monday approved a use permit to construct and operate a 100-bed convalescent hospital on Escuela Circle.

The matter had been continually tabled by the council since March because of legalities pending with the landowner.

A. C. Roberts, representing the Westlake Convalescent Hospital, explained to councilamn during a public hearing, that the new facility would not only employ between 60-80 persons, but would add to the city's tax rolls as a revenue producing business.

The council gave the go-ahead for the building with several stipulations, including certain improvements, be completed prior to opening of the rest home; that the entire site be landscaped and maintained in good conditon and that trees be planted on frontages at 30-foot intervals in accordance with city street specifications.

In other action, Monday, the council:

controversy . . . and that no matter which way trustees turned they would be unable to produce a package that would not in some way prove inequitable to many.

District Supt. Ed Morgan, upon board direction, submitted a proposal that encompassed other extra-curricular affairs — additional money for club advisors who spend many hours outside the classroom, and for publications advisors, counselors and the student activities advisor.

But — as Morgan readily admitted soon after his proposal became known — no one seemed to be pleased at all with his flat-rate apportionments.

The coaches objected: Morgan's proposal, while adding new functions to the extra-pay schedule also dropped by about $160 the wage for a head coach.

The coaches didn't like the flat rate idea. They refused to recognize the new schedule unless they were paid on the old per-hour schedule.

Other groups wanted the schedule all-inclusive. Even this week, teacher groups wanted dance and sports committee personnel included, to make, in their view, the extra-pay program more equitable.

In fact, some teachers, as well as trustees and administrators made it known they didn't like the idea of extra pay at all — it pulled away from the idea of "professionalism," they said.

Morgan's original proposal would have cost about $51,000, but went higher as more proposed amendments were to be considered

Monday, the debate began all over again when Trustee Edward Solomon moved that Morgan's schedule, without "committees," be adopted, but that an additional $12,000 be tacked on to put coaches back up to last year's level.

This didn't set well with teacher representatives, who promptly made their irritation known when Solomon explained he was moving for only the coaches' pay to be increased. The other teachers thought advisors — etc. — should be boosted by the same percentage, which was ultimately the case, at a cost of approximately $74,000.

Sandwiched between first and final motions was talk, belaboring and confusing.

Demoralization of the instructional staff again was threatened.

At one point, before Solomon got back to the $74,000 question there was a motion by Trustee Elio Fontana to study the feasibility of a possible salary classification schedule, with board action (if any, whenever) retroactive to September 1.

This was approved, and Coach Joe McGrath noted he was becoming fast demoralized, inasmuch as he got $660 last year for his sport, was offered $500 under the Morgan Plan, then nothing under the Fontana Proposal.

Solomon finally agreed to the all-encompassing $74,000 deal and presumably everyone felt a bit less degraded. Except for Fontana, who attempted in vain to withdraw his motion to study the matter. (The retroactive bit already had been amended out.)

That issue had hardly simmered down when Frank Gillis, whose union represents classified personnel — the clerks, custodians and other non-teachers — firmly asked for the one-per cent hike in salary he had wanted but had not pressed for earlier.

During discussions of the four-per cent increase for all employees, Gillis had thanked the board for its efforts and cited classified employe satisfaction with the offer.

However, in withdrawing that accord, Gillis thought the trustees should approve the $9,000 that a one-per cent increase would give the classified folks.

He described $9,000 as next to nothing in contrast to the $74,000 in extra pay, and told trusteees to expect nothing but discontent among those employes his union represents.

The board took no action. Trustee Fontana pointed out the other benefits granted particularly the new health plan which, for persons making about $10,000 annually (the district's average), represents a three-per cent salary increase.

Four per cent and three per cent totals seven per cent, a pretty good increase, it was declared.

The four-per cent increase was not considered satisfactory by teacher representatives who had pushed a five per cent, 11 step prgoram.

But they took the 4 per cent.

PARKING LOT

Bruno Signs Paving Pact

Low bid received on a contract for construction of the parking lot for San Bruno's new corporation yard Monday was $600 above the city engineer's estimate for that phase of the project.

Councilmen awarded the contract to Lowrie Paving Company of South San Francisco.

The firm's bid of $4,137 was the lowest of four received.

City Manager Gerard Vergeer said engineers underestimated the extent of excavation needed to prepare the parking lot site in their original estimates, and other aspects of the project are too low.

"The bids on this small aspect tine to accumulate 12 days' sick of the $600,000 project have little relationship to the over-all cost," he said.

In other business Monday, the council adopted an amendment to the city's personnel rules to provide additional sick leave benefits to city employes.

The amendment extends the limit on accumulated sick leave to 120 days. Employes will continue to accumulate 12 days sick leave for each year of employment.

The council overruled a planning commission decision denying a use permit for a nonconforming sign at Art's Locksmith Shop, 588 San Bruno Avenue, and granted a variance with the condition that the sign be removed within eight years, the amortization period remaining under a sign ordinance adopted two years ago.

A similar appeal entered by the Morris Plan Company was continued until the next council meeting to allow further discussion.

Richard Brown, a representative of the California State Automobile Association, presented a Pedestrian Safety Citation to Mayor Maurice Hamilton, and commended the city for its record of five years without a pedestrian traffic fatality.

The city manager gave a progress report on discussions with the Southern Pacific Company on a joint project to pave the railroad's parking area in San Bruno.

Vergeer said he expects to receive a final answer from the company officials at a meeting scheduled Thursday.

not listed the same reasons, their own moral code, first, then the fear of physical damage, the risk of law, and parental influence last.

Hickson and seven other members of his committee had interviewed the teeners in a day-long session at Hillcrest last May, but the young people were not Hillcrest inmates.

They had been selected by the administrators of the high schools in the county, each of whom had been asked to supply four youngsters. The committee did not specify what kind of teen-agers, but each said they believed the 84 represented an accurate cross-section of the types of youngsters in San Mateo County high schools.

Baring out the reports of the Narcotics Inquiry group's statistics subcommittee last week the fact finding board found that drug users, especially marijuana and LSD users, do not come from any certain type of family background.

They are found in well-to-do homes, and in poor homes. They are found in broken homes, and in happy ones.

How many of them might be continuing users of any drugs, the committee was not prepared to say.

They did state that the youngsters frequently commented that adults had no real information to indicate that marijuana is harmful to the body.

"The youngsters are putting down LSD themselves," said Hickson, "because they are becoming aware of information that it is dangerous."

Map Fee Increase

South San Francisco planning commissioners Monday approved City Planner Daniel Pass' proposals to increase fees for filing subdivision maps, parcel maps, variance applications and zoning amendments.

The commission recommended amendments to the city's subdivision ordinance and zoning ordinance to implement the proposed changes.

If the city council approves the proposed changes, the cost of a zoning amendment will be increased from $50 to $75, a charge of $100 will be levied for a planned community application, and the cost of a variance will be increased from $20 to $30.

A fee of $25 will be charged for the filing of parcel maps. The city currently collects no fee for the filing of parcel maps.

In his recommendation, Pass noted South San Francisco's present fees for the specified services are about 35 per cent below the average for Peninsula cities.

The proposed rates approximate the average for neighboring cities, Pass said.

The city council will consider the proposed fee increases at the next regular meeting.

In other business at Monday's commission meeting, a variance permitting enlargement of a single-family dwelling at 132 Nyla Avenue was granted to T. La Grave.

The house will extend into the required side yard when alterations are completed, and will cover more than 44 per cent of the building site.

Two Held in D.C. Holdup-Beating

Two men were arrested in Daly City last week and were accused of the holdup-beating of a liquor store clerk.

Police arrested Frank Arthur Angotti, of 678 Skyline Boulevard, Daly City, and James S. Parker, of San Francisco after being "tipped" to their whereabouts.

The pair had been sought after the same tipster identified them as the same men who held up the Jug Shop at Skyline Plaza Shopping Center shortly before midnight last Friday.

Angotti resides less than a block from the shopping center. However, he was not at home when police arrived to arrest him earlier in the week.

An all-points bulletin was sent out by Daly City police and Angotti was picked up by San Francisco police at a friend's home in that city.

A few hours later, Parker was arrested in San Francisco by a combined posse of San Francisco and Daly City detectives.

Parker was identified by liquor store clerk Don Banks as one of the men that beat and robbed him of more than $1,600.

Banks told police Parker came in to the store shortly before closing and while engaging him in conversation "stuck something in my back" and ordered the clerk to hand over all the cash in the register.

While facing the wall a second man entered the store, walked up to Banks and allegedly hit him several times on the head with a blackjack.

Banks was treated for severe lacerations at Mary's Help Hospital and released, police said.

The victim could give no reason for what police labled an "unprovoked attack."

Investigating officers Chuck Phillips and Paul Westlund said part of the loot has been recovered with the arrest of the men. They did not specify the amount.

Bogus Bills Turn Up in N. County

Bogus $10 bills are being passed in the North County area, police warned today.

James J. Brennan, manager of the Standard service station at 1101 Broadway, Burlingame, called police attention to one of the bills last week, after receiving it from a customer the night before.

Another appeared at the Wells Fargo Bank, 249 Primrose Road, but clerks could not recall when it was received.

Similar reports have been made in Colma, and Millbrae, it was said.

Brennan told officers his attendant described the probable passer of the bad bill as a young man dressed in "new clothes," including metallic gold trousers.

The suspect was described as 19 to 24 years of age, weighed about 135, and stood about five-feet-six, the attendant said. He had dark, curly hair, and black heavy rimmed glasses.

D.C.'s Tot Lot Project Completed

Daly City's first complete park facility — a tot lot — has been completed under the city's Urban Beautification Program, city engineer Arthur Reschke announced.

The new playground is located in Serramonte at the corner of Canterbury and Wakefield Avenues.

"We believe the layout is both functional and pleasing in appearance," Reschke said.

A play area for tots up to five years old is separated from a play area for five-to-ten year olds by a central adult supervision area.

The tot lot was designed by the city's engineering staff and landscaped by the Parks Division, Reschke explained.

"Few people are aware of the high cost of vandalism in parks and public areas," Reschke said. "We have attempted to fence the landscaping into the tot lot instead of outside the area.

Reschke felt that by "fencing in" the landscaping, the lot "will remain enjoyable for many years . . ."

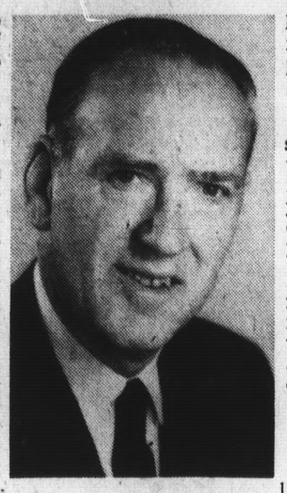
500,000 Tons of Cargo At S.F. Airport By 1970

Plans to make San Francisco International Airport capable of handling 500,000 tons of cargo per year by 1970, were described last week to the Peninsula Manufacturers' Association.



GEORGE HANSEN
Airport Manager

Speaker George Hansen, manager of the airport, was introduced by PMA Director Walt Harris, following a luncheon at the International Inn in South San Francisco.

Hansen told the industry men that the airport must be made ready for "the new family of jets" coming along, the Douglas "stretched DC-8," the Boeing 747, and the Lockheed L-500 which may reach the airports by 1975 with 900 passengers per plane.

He urged them to advise their customers, clients, associates, employes, that those who live in San Francisco should vote "yes" in the $98,000,000 November 7 bond election, because the airport is vital to the Peninsula and Northern California economy.

Industrial plans for the airport include filling in a 135-acre seaplane basin at the north end of the field, and a 55-acre plot of World War II barge docks, to provide for an entirely new "cargo city" within 10 years.

There will be 36 new aircraft parking positions, 5,300 new parking stalls for cars, and terminal buildings expanded to handle 20,000,000 or more passengers per year.

The expansion is made necessary, he said, by an industry in which passenger traffic growth is averaging 12 per cent per year, and freight traffic increases at least 20 per cent yearly.

With the larger planes, freight rates may continue to become more and more competitive with other modes of shipping, and the traffic grow even faster, he indicated.

N. County Car Insurance Hike

Northern San Mateo County car owners will be paying more for their insurance now in counter to a general drop in state insurance costs.

For the first time since 1959, auto insurance rates are going down in some California areas.

A spokesman for the Insurance Information Institute said Tuesday it's a combination of "frequency of claims and average costs," or "less cost to pay off."

Statewide the average rate for physical damage is down 5.3 per cent, while the liability average rate is up seven-tenths of one per cent.

Southern Alameda County had the largest drop in the state, down 11.4 per cent. In the Bay Area, San Francisco had the lowest decline, one per cent.

The Oakland Metropolitan area is down 8.3 per cent and the Oakland suburban area down 7.8 per cent. Other parts of Alameda County were down 6.7 per cent and the rest of Contra Costa down 6.3 per cent.

Running counter to the trend northern San Mateo County motorists will have a 2.6 per cent rate increase, while there will be no change in the rest of the county.

The rate is up 2.3 per cent in northern Santa Clara County, but down elsewhere 1.6 per cent.

Penny Woes At Coast Co.

Pacifica police are investigating the use of trimmed pennies as substitutes for dimes in a vending machine at a Pacific Manor District laundromat.

A police spokesman said the facility's attendant found 14 cut-down one-cent pieces in the soft drink vending machine.

Nine cans of soda were missing, he said.

'Mistake---Won't Happen Again'

'Smut' Publication Suspended, Official Declares

A San Francisco State college newspaper that was recently labeled as "smut" by a Daly City civic organization has been called "a mistake that will not happen again."

Donald Garrity, vice president for Academic Affairs, of San Francisco State College today said a "Summer Love" edition of the underground newspaper "Open Process" and "one-time incident; and a mistake that will not happen again."

"President (John) Summerskill has suspended publication of "Open Process" until certain stipulations are met, including establishment of a Board of Publications manned by responsible persons," Garrity said.

Campus politics were blamed for a breakdown of the college's Board of Publication — responsible for all on-campus publications.

At the time the controversial "Summer Love" edition, which talks openly of sex acts and has a photograph of a reclining nude on the cover, was published and distributed (to more than 10,000 students), the Board of Publications had suffered a complete breakdown and each of the college's political factions was "going out of their way to avoid each other," Garrity explained.

Responsible college officials were not aware of the publication until it had been distributed. They were then "quite concerned over the issue," according to Garrity.

Summerskill immediately issued the indefinite suspension order.

A letter sent out by Pinole salesman H. E. Vandever condemning the publication said the suspension was applicable only during the three summer months and therefore meaningless. Garrity denied this.

"This just isn't so. The publication has been suspended until such time as all of president Summerskill's stipulations governing papers published on this campus are met—not before," Garrity said.

Vandever's letter, along with excerpts from Open Process and a one-act play allegedly written by LeRoi Jones prompted the Daly City Chamber of Commerce to write a series of letters to Governor Reagan and legislative representatives.

Daly City mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett blasted the paper and said other citizens should "stand up and be counted" on such matters .

Lycett labeled the paper "out and out smut."

Garrity agreed with the chamber that the edition was in "poor taste" but made it clear "the paper is not this college's only publication — it is in fact not the principal school paper."

The San Francisco State college official called the Daly City chamber "irresponsible" for not "picking up the phone and getting all the facts before splashing this all over the newspapers.

Asked if a play, "Arm Yourself or Harm Yourself," written by Jones, was produced on campus using EOA (Economic Opportunity Act) funds, or if these funds were used in publication of the newspaper as alleged by Vandever, Garrity said "absolutely not!"

"While Mr. Vandever is correct in stating that associated student body membership fees are used in publication of this paper (Open Process), he is incorrect when he implies that EOA funds were used in any of these matters," Garrity said.

Luv Is a Fragile Thing

There is more missing in the film "Luv," currently playing on the Peninsula, than the letters "O" and "E." Missing is the essential qualities, lightness, brightness, and comic timing. As a comedy vehicle, it is completely humorless which is regrettable, since the Broadway play had so brightened the legitimate scene only a few years ago.

Its positive qualities are summed up in Elaine May's movie debut. Its deficiencies belong to Jack Lemmon's overacted paranoid who is forever threatening to jump off the Manhattan Bridge and to the usually funny Peter Falk, who contributes nothing to the effort except a warm body that talks.

Whither then went the comedy so delightfully discerned in the stage version that genius Director Mike Nichols assembled? Since he refused to be involved in the film version, his spark of inventiveness is missing and so is everyone elses. He must have realized the illusive nature of the piece in translating it into cinematic terms, or maybe guiding his former partner, Elaine May, through the turbulent waters of her first time before the camera, put him off. Nichols may have been the only thing to save the Murray Schisgal comedy. Director Clive Donner came no way near retaining the kernel of comedy once he built up to it.

Luv begins with a suicide attempt and ends there. Between these frantic demonstrations of neuroses is a four-way love affair that has Falk trying to palm off his wife, Elaine May on Lemmon, an old school buddy so he can marry a willowy gymnastic instructor, Nina Wayne, but once they are all paired off, love for them is not better the second time around and they backtrack to their original mates.

Firstly, Falk and May are married. Following their their divorce, May and Falk rekindle their spark for one another in desperation over the laziness and stupidity of their new found mates.

Then what to do about Lemmon? He is such a jerk, an incompetent neurotic, one can hardly muster up sympathy for his attempted suicides. The actor plays it too broadly. Only Miss May, with her strident accusing tone of voice, her directness and sarcasm, left the fragile comedy into the realm of spontaneity. She scores strongly on her initial screen appearance. There was never any question as to her accomplishment as a comedienne and she can't come back soon enough for our money.

Youngsters Return...

IT'S ALMOST THAT TIME — Hey, moms — it won't be long! Just hang onto your sanity for awhile longer and the Little Ones will be back in school. We know it's getting close to the end of the Vacation Season because people are beginning to answer their own phone calls again. And when the family leaves the campsites to return to civilization —and to school—that's when Yours Truly heads for the wide open spaces. It's not that we can't stand children yelling and tossing rocks at the squirrels, but . . .

ANGRY ASSEMBLYMAN — Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan wants to know why the State hasn't started construction of that overpass in South San Francisco. In a recent column we mentioned the fact that it won't be started until next year — after Sacramento promised it would be built this summer. Several tots were killed at the site and Ryan wants to know how many more will be sacrificed before somebody Up There does something. Our faithful servants in the State Highway Department agreed to build the overpass . . . reluctantly after much persuading. Now let's see 'em PRODUCE.

In a news release, Ryan pointed out the project would be given "the highest priority possible" when he completed his round of talks in Sacramento. Hate to think what would have happened if the overpass was given a "low priority."

SLEUTHING SECTION — Is there any truth to the story circulating around the Westlake Shopping Center? The one about the LOL that ran up to patrolman James Van Pelt and shrieked she saw a man entering one of the banks with a gun in his hand. She described him as wearing a grey suit and glancing around suspiciously. Sure enough, Van Pelt spotted a man wearing a grey suit in front of one of the tellers and went into action.

Walking up behind the man, Van Pelt instructed him to "take it slow." The LOL rushed up and said he had the wrong man. "The man you want, officer, is standing over THERE."

Van Pelt wheeled around and came face to face with the suspect — an armored car guard complete with grey suit and gun. Nice work LOL . . .

THE SHADOW KNOWS why the Sanitary Land Fill Company is building another dike next to their controversial fill area in Brisbane. It will someday be the site of an incinerator — at least scavenger officials hope so. The 22-acre area will be drained and filled with "clean" fill — not garbage. Once the incinerator is in operation, San Francsco scavengers hope to make a deal with North County cities on picking up waste. Is that a premature statement??? Did I blow the whole deal skyhigh??

Bay Area Settings

(Today's column is by David Crane of the Daly City Public Library staff)

In reviewing the numerous first novels published this year, it is interesting to observe that three of them most widely acclaimed have been from young Northern Californian writers.

John Van der Zee, Bruce Reeves, and Ken Kolb have all used the Bay Areas as the setting for their novels, which in itself is a refreshing change from the majority of others, which are invariably about New York.

John Van der Zee's "The Plum Explosion," has received a number of excellent reviews, which it well deserves. It is the story of a young real estate developer, who sets out to build a truly unique and aesthetically pleasing planned community utilizing the natural beauty of a plum orchard where he had spent many of his college days.

However, he becomes involved in zoning regulations and economic considerations, that force him to gradually compromise his position, and the dream community becomes a nightmare. The story moves rapidly and the descriptions of the Santa Clara and San Joaquin Valley are beautifully written.

BRUCE REEVE'S novel "The Night Action," received the most favorable advance publicity, and, as is quite often the case, was then hit hardest by the reviewers when it came out.

Set in the topless, post-beat environment of San Francisco's North Beach, the characters move in and out of each others lives in impressionistic waves, while searching for love or identity in the sea of nihilism that surrounds them.

While the novel as a whole is somewhat of a disappointment, there are passages, which are excellent and indicate that the depths of this 24-year-old writer's talent are yet to be realized. Hopefully something of major importance will be written by him in the future.

Of the three authors, the one who has perhaps received the least publicity, yet, in my opinion, warrants the most praise is Ken Kolb for his humorous novel about college life, "Getting Straight." Ken Kolb graduated with honors from the University of California at Berkeley, and "Getting Straight" is the story of the attempt of a graduate student at the university to "get straight," i.e., to give up pot, protest, and his hippy friends in order to obtain a teaching credential.

HARRY, the hero of the story, enters the university's graduate education program with a burning desire to be a high school English teacher, but is confronted with mind-stifling education courses, loyalty oaths, and homosexual professors, which all but destroy his zeal for the profession.

Then there are his friends, who don't make things any easier for him. There is Nick, who takes three caps of LSD and thinks he is the Messiah, a Negro jazz singer, who gives him love in exchange for a lesson in Shakespeare, and a fellow candidate for a teaching credential, who is working her way through college by selling specialty undergarments to bawdy houses.

Combined with everything else, Harry takes a full-time job in public relations at a large department store. The events that follow result in one of the most humorous accounts of academic life since Kingsley Amis' "Lucky Jim."

Fly Now, Pay Never

The airline ticket sales industry has been hard hit by the fly-now-pay-never crowd.

Thousands of tickets, potential value of which runs into millions of dollars, have been stolen and sold to gullible citizens and to persons deliberately seeking black market travel bargains.

Although it is against the law for any airline travel agent to sell tickets at a discount, the American public is so oriented toward discount buying, that when tickets are available at a discount, they will buy.

The tickets purchased are often with open reservations, making it possible for them to be used on any number of flights. The fraudulently obtained tickets when resold, may bring 40 to 60 percent of their value.

THE FRAUD promoters use the telephone to order tickets to be mailed to a fictitious name. The promoter "travel agent" operates in bars, restaurants and other public places.

His typical approach is to introduce himself to a prospective buyer as a travel consultant. He explains the tickets are cheap, because he wants to build up a large sales report. He is willing to sacrifice his commissions to do this.

Another approach is to confide that the travel agency named on the ticket is going bankrupt and wants to sell its tickets fast as it does not intend to turn the money over to the airlines.

Five thousand tickets were stolen from legitimate travel agencies in the past year. In one theft of seven tickets, the actual loss to the airlines was about $6,000. About 800 of the tickets were used by purchasers before the airlines identified them as stolen.

THE PROMOTER may place a $50,000 order for tickets and pay for them with a certified check. Having built up confidence, the next time he comes around with a $75,000 order and a check that bounced.

To help combat this growing racket, Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien asks the public to report all offers to sell tickets at a discount.

Airline tickets are not sold at a discount except to special groups by authorized agents. Report immediately the loss of a credit card. The credit card is a major source of fraudulently purchased tickets.

A trio of confidence men in one week used an industrial firm's credit card to obtain more than $25,000 worth of airline tickets, which they sold at discounts of from 20 to 40 percent.

Notify authorities if you receive a billing for a flight you did not take. The criminals may be using your name to obtain tickets.

SCREENINGS

Right now, in Miami, Florida the networks are busily engaged in trying to save the start of the new television season.

All the shows have been scheduled, along with hundreds of specials, but that isn't what is worrying the networks. NABET, the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians, are about to strike against ABC and NBC.

NABET's contract expires definitely on August 31, and according to a union spokesman 97 per cent of the employes involved favor a strike.

NABET is the union that controls the engineers, floormen, cameramen, publicity people, and tape recorder operators.

The networks claim that they can operate even if NABET does go out. However, one network spokesman said, if the other unions co-operate, "we may be in trouble."

MANY A BAY AREA resident visiting in Los Angeles has been impressed by a form of radio broadcasting now becoming very popular in the southland . . . "twenty-four hour news station."

The original station in the Los Angeles area is XTRA, a Tijuana station operated from Los Angeles. This station broadcasts news continually and anytime a listener tunes in he is sure to get a full news broadcast.

However, KABC, and KABC-FM, the American Broadcasting Company stations in Los Angeles have come up with a more sophisticated form of news operation. During the day in addition to comprehensive news coverage the ABC operations present commentary and special features.

At the moment San Francisco has no such operation. However, a little bird tells us that we can look forward to such an operation in the near future.

In New York the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company station has been very successful with its news operation, as has other stations. Reports seeping out of New York indicate that the new top management of the CBS-Radio operations are looking at the idea of doing the same thing on all their owned and operated stations.

News operations are terribly expensive. In fact, estimates have been made that to run a really outstanding full time news operations radio station costs must increase six or seven times higher than the conventional type of operation.

Only large organizations like CBS or ABC can really afford such an operation.

You may recall that KFAX here in San Francisco attempted such an operation some years back and finally had to throw in the sponge. The costs killed the idea in less than a year.

THE SOLD OUT Raider-49er football game scheduled for September 3, at the Oakland Colseum will be broadcaast on radio by both KNEW, Oakland and KSFO, San Francisco.

If you don't have tickets yet, you'll have two stations to choose from.

Our Opinion

Positive Power

People aren't only as good as they think they are. They are apparently also as good as other people think they are.

This thought-provoking theory was the subject of a psychological experiment among school-children in South San Francisco. After making routine tests of youngsters, Dr. Robert Rosenthal picked out, at random, 20 per cent. These, he told teachers, would make dramatic gains in their schoolwork in the next year.

There was no basis for such a prediction; the children had wide ranges of I.Q. and school performance. Nevertheless, within a year, all of that 20 per cent had, indeed, made the gains their teachers had been led to expect.

Teacher expectation, Dr. Rosenthal says, can be a very powerful determinant in a child's life. He believes the inverse of this experiment — that when a child is expected to be dull, he usually fulfills that expectation, too.

The idea that people tend to measure up to expectations is not new, but it's one that has had little measurable evidence to support it. This work of Rosenthal will certainly be examined closely by teachers. But it is also something for others, especially parents, to think about.

Life Goes on as Usual at S.F. Jail

By DON GRIERSON

There have been few changes at the San Francisco County Jail in San Bruno since the State Board of Corrections investigation last year, with life at the prison continuing in the same routine manner that prevailed before the inquiry was instigated by a visiting women's group.

Two deputies, a sergeant, and a male nurse have been added to the somewhat skimpy staff, and some minor administrative changes have been inaugurated.

Sheriff Matt Carberry requested the addition of two new rehabilitation officers and a number of administrative employes at budget hearings several months ago, but the necessary appropriations were not approved.

Some prisoners at the jail continue to sleep on mattresses thrown upon the cell floors, and security remains a constant and nagging problem, according to Chief Deputy Charles Cunningham.

"We haven't had what you would call an actual escape in recent months, just a few walk-aways," he said.

The most recent "walk-away" occurred about two weeks ago when an elderly inmate failed to return from a farm work detail.

"He somehow slipped past the gate, and remained at large several hours before being picked up in a nearby residential neighborhood," the chief deputy said.

The man, serving a 90-day sentence for petty theft, wandered about the Skyline Boulevard area until nightfall, then knocked at the door of a residence and asked a housewife for a coat.

The woman gave him the coat, then telephoned police, who returned the man to his cell in time for the evening bed check.

"We don't send a man out on the farm detail if he has more than six months time to serve," Cunningham said, "and in no instance would an inmate who could be considered dangerous be assigned to an outside job."

The only felons lodged at the jail are state prison parolees who have been sentenced to terms of less than one year for parole violations, according to administrators.

Despite necessary security measures and crowded conditions, an easy atmosphere prevails at the prison, and the day-to-day life of the inmates seems, at first glance, a pleasant enough condition.

On a sunny afternoon this week, a bus from San Francisco pulled up to the docking room door and unloaded nine prostitutes and four or five transvestite "female impersonators."

A group of wino short-termers working in the flower beds around the office set up a hue and cry of catcalls as the gaudy procession filed toward the door.

The guards, placidly observing from the sidelines, made no effort to interrupt the momentary diversion.

"It might seem pleasant enough here when you visit the place for a short time," Cunningham said, "but the tedium of the day-to-day routine gets to all the prisoners.

"You have to understand that this represents the greater part of life for these men who are alcoholics. They are sentenced to a term here, serve their time, go back to the streets, then are sentenced to another term after only three or four days of freedom."

There remains little work for the inmates to do at the prison. Operations at the mess hall represent most of the labor performed.

The male inmates also operate the 150-acre farm surrounding the jail. Female prisoners operate a laundry.

A middle-age wino named Harold interrupted his leisurely task of weeding the flower beds Tuesday to confirm the chief deputy's observation about the tedious routine at the jail.

Gazing out over the rolling acres of the lovely valley surrounding the prison, he said:

"This is the most stark, raving place I've ever been."

However, something in arold's tone suggested he would have had a similar comment about any jail, given the condition that he was "on the inside looking out."

Harold agrees with a great number of professional medical men who believe jail is not the proper place for the alcoholic.

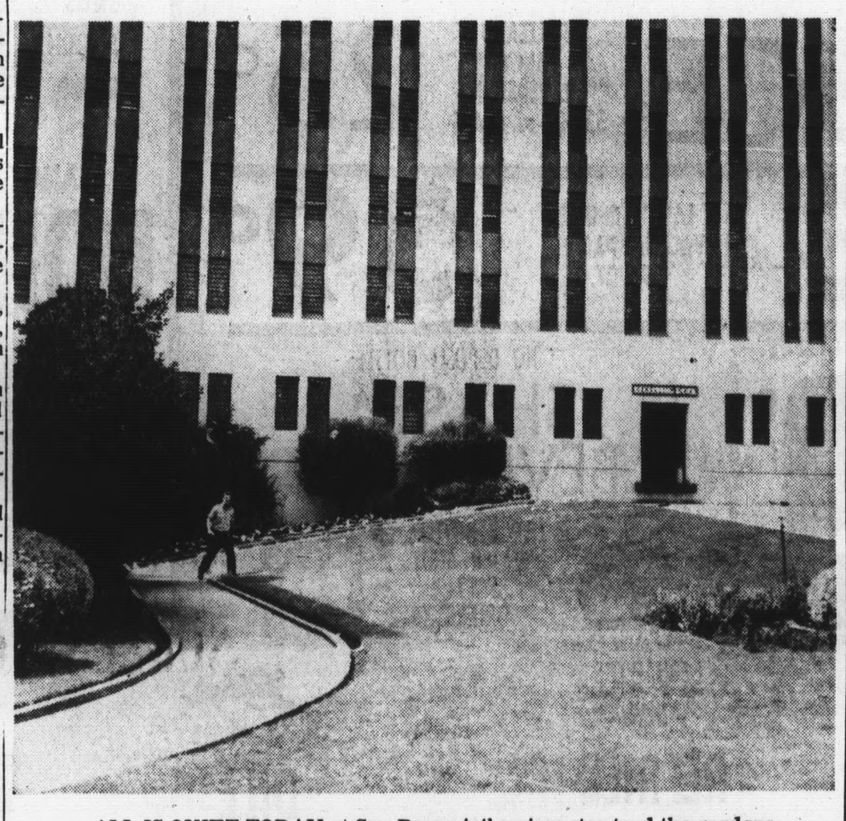
"If I were a policeman, I'd be ashamed to arrest a drunk," he said. "With all the crime and violence on the streets, I don't see how they find the time to harass a poor wino."

He also is disturbed by the inequity in application of laws concerning public drunkenness:

"A well-dressed guy can stumble out of the Mark Hopkins or the St. Francis and fall in the gutter, and a police officer will pick him up and dust him off and call a taxi," he said.

"You stumble once on Sixth Street, and they throw you back in jail."

Harold is serving his fourth sentence at the jail in San Bruno. He vows this time — as in times past — that it will be his last.



ALL IS QUIET TODAY at San Bruno jail as inmates tend the gardens. (Post photo)

D.C. Man Is Suspect In $2,500 Theft

Daly City police have arrested a 25-year-old San Francisco man and charged him with the armed robbery of the Budget Finance office on Mission Street.

Held in the new Daly City jail in lieu of $2,500 bail is Thomas Clifton Terry of 1456 Revere Street, San Francisco.

Police said Terry's car assertedly had been seen near the finance company's office at the time of the robbery.

Invited to appear in a lineup, Terry was identified by victims, a police department spokesman said.

The victims said a gunman wearing a "porkpie" hat and sunglasses had held up the office shortly after 3 p.m. on August 18, fleeing with an undetermined amount of cash.

The robber, they said, had flashed a black revolver, demanding the money from a counter clerk.

S.S.F. Firm Wins Plant

Associated Construction and Engineering Co. of South San Francisco has been awarded a contract for the design, engineering, and construction of a new 72,500 square foot plant and office complex for H. S. Crocker Company, Inc., in Baltimore.

The new structure in Canton Industrial Park will replace Crocker's present Baltimore facilities, which the company has outgrown. A further 70,000 square feet on the 6½ acre site have been set aside for further expansion. H. S. Crocker is one of the nation's largest printing and lithograph companies, with headquarters in San Bruno.

Priest's Car Is Entered

An automobile belonging to a San Francisco priest was burglarized Wednesday night in a San Bruno parking lot, police said.

Officers said a car belonging to the Rev. James D. Halligan was broken into while he attended a movie at the Skyline Theatre. A wallet containing several credit cards was taken from the glove compartment, according to police.

Man Held On Rape Charge

Millbrae police Wednesday arrested Lester D. Schall, 28, 499 Poplar Avenue, San Bruno, on a charge of forcible rape.

Schall, a cabinetmaker, is accused of assaulting a young Pacifica housewife in a Millbrae shopping center at 4 a.m. yesterday.

The victim said she had an appointment for a job at the South San Francisco produce market at 3 a.m., and had been told to return at 5 o'clock. As she drove around looking for an open coffee shop, she told police, another driver signaled that something appeared wrong with her car. When she stopped, she said, the man climbed into her auto and later raped her at knifepoint.

Schall was released after posting $1,100 bail, and is to appear in Central District municipal Court Tuesday, for arraignment.

Joseph Morgan Wed

Peninsulans looked with interest at the Seattle wedding of Lucy Margaret Zipp and Joseph Harvey Morgan. They were married Sturday at St. George Catholic Church in that city.

Lucy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Zipp of Seattle. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Morgan of San Bruno.

She recited her vows in a full-length, Empire gown of white Italian silk appliqued with Alencon lace and accented with seed pearls. The same lace detailed her long mantilla, and she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Barbara Friedl served as honor attendant for her sister in a floor-length Empire gown of emerald green satin. Similarly gowned bridesmaids were Gwenda Llewellyn and Theresa Carey, sister of the bride. They all carried cascades of tangerine carnations. Jeanette Zipp, 6-year-old sister of the bride, was the flower girl.

Lynn S. Hill stood with Joseph as best man. The ushering contingent included Roger Friedl, brother-in-law of the bride, and William Holliday.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Morgan changed into a double-breasted silk suit in deep rose with white accessories. After a tour of the Canadian provinces, they will be at home in San Jose.

The new matron is a graduate of Holy Names Academy and St. Cabrini School of Nursing. Her husband is an alumnus of Capuchino High School and California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo.

DC Mothers Plan Events For Month

Newly installed officers of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mother's Club are making plans for the coming year.

The traditional Welcome Breakfast will be held September 5 at 10 a.m. in the school cafeteria.

All mothers, especially those of newly enrolled students of OLPH, are invited to this special "let's-get-acquainted" gathering on the first day of school.

At 1:30 p.m. the same day — for those playing cards — the club's first monthly whist gathering will be held in the school auditorium, 80 Wellington Avenue.

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Parish also is sponsoring a dinner-dance to kick-off fund raising events for urgently needed school repairs, a Paris spokesman said.

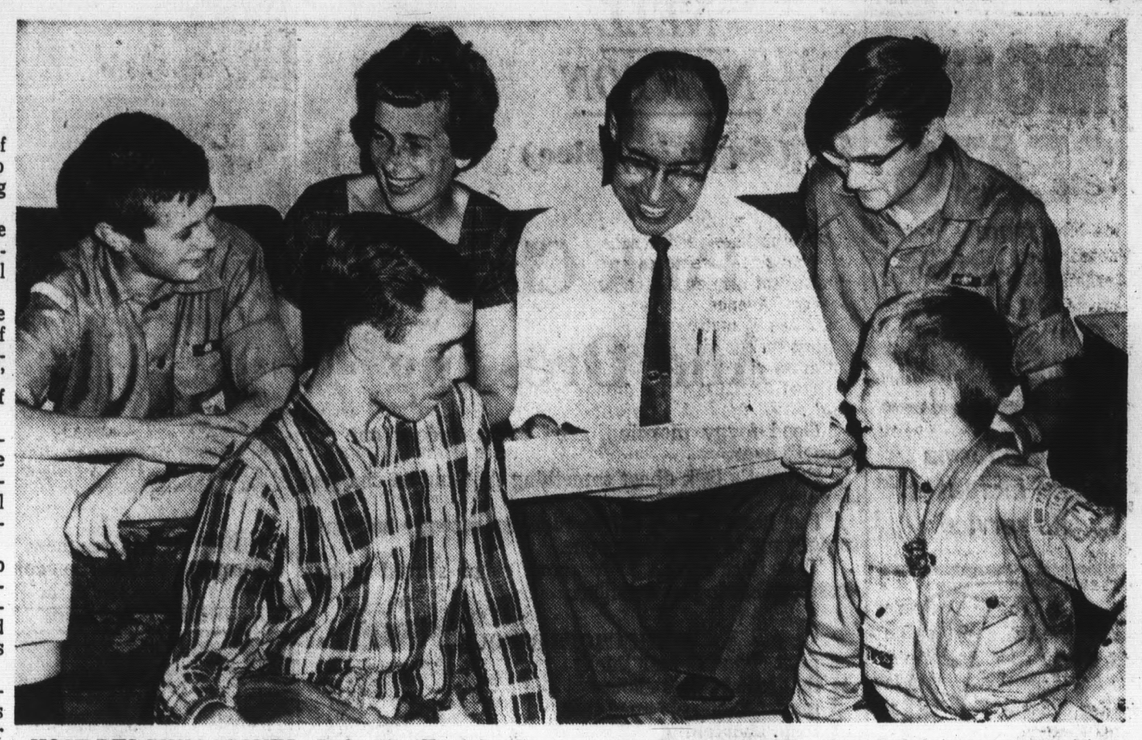
The dance, unter the direction of the OLPH Mother's Club, will be held, September 30 at the Elks Club, South San Francisco.

There will be a no-host cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Dancing will be from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m., with music by Loyd Herman's band.

A fashion show also is scheduled.

Information may be obtained from Mrs. Roy Galli, 291 Sunshine Drive, Pacifica (756-7002)



HOST BELGIUM SCOUTS—Daly City Engineer Arthur Reschke played host to two boy scouts from faraway Belgium, during their stay in the county last week. The brothers, Josepf and Guido Van Hecken, thought the U.S. was "very interesting, because it's so big." The boys left International Airport along with 280 other Belgium scouts visiting Bay Area homes last Friday. Looking over a map of the scouts' travels are (from left to right back row) Guido Van Hecken, Mrs. Heddy Reschke, Arthur Reschke, Josepf Van Hecken, (seated front row) Armin Reschke and Dennis Reschke.

HIPPIES, TV, AMERICA

Visiting Belgium Scouts Find It All 'Interesting'

By FRANK LaPIERRE

In Holland they call them "Provos," while in Belgium they're known as "Revos." In San Francisco they are simply "Hippies."

To brothers Josepf and Guido Van Hecken — Boy Scouts from Antwerp now visiting Daly City — a Hippy is "interesting to look at, but rather smelly."

The boys recently returned from the Boy Scout Jamboree in Farragut, Idaho.

After visiting for a week with Daly City engineer Arthur Reschke's family they had some candid comments about America in general, and the North County in particular.

"America is interesting — everything about it — because it is so big," Josepf said.

San Francisco and Daly City are too foggy.

"We have fog back home (the boys live outside Antwerp), however, it doesn't last all day — everyday," Guido pointed out.

One of the highlights of the brothers' stay was "eating American hamburgers. They taste much different than ours."

How about American television, they were asked?

"Our parents don't allow us to watch television, although there is a government-sponsored TV network in Belgium. And we do not have commercials on our TV," Josef explained.

"I think American television is alright, but those commercials are silly," he said.

The scouts toured Yellowstone Park (we don't have THAT in Belgium), Disneyland and Las Vegas and stayed with families in Livingston, Montana, Los Angeles and in Daly City.

When they end their visit on August 28, the brothers will have stayed in the United States one month.

Following a 7,000-mile airplane trip that took them across the North Pole to Seattle, the boys boarded a bus for Farragut — meeting place for 13,000 boy scouts from 110 countries around the world.

"It's much easier to be a Boy Scout in America," Josepf said.

"When we make camp in Belgium, we must make our own tables, chairs and things we will use for the campout. In America, all these things are supplied to the campers."

Asked what they thought of the American people, both youngsters replied:

"Interesting, very interesting!"

Temple's Activities Disclosed

Percy Moore, executive director, Council for Civic Unity of the San Francisco Bay Area, will speak at Temple Judea near Daly City on Friday, following services and during the Oneg Shabbat.

Moore has attended school in Harrisburg, Penn., and at the University of California in Berkeley. He is a member of the Commission of Church and Community, and the Commission for Racial Justice Now, as well as serving on many other civic organizations.

Moore also has served in the administration of ILWU Warehousemen's Welfare and Pension program and as consultant, Health Care Services.

Other Judea activities:

September 17, the Sisterhood of Temple Judea, will hold its "Fall Botique Sample Bazaar." New merchandise consisting of clothing and giftware will sell at below-cost prices. Proceeds will help subsidize the Temple's religious school. Time of the sale will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A second mass rummage pickup is scheduled for September 9 by the Sisterhood. These items will be used for the forthcoming rummage sale, to be held at the Hall of Flowers, September 27. Calls for pickup of the items should be made to Mrs. Lee Bart, WY. 2-4362; Mrs. Martin Segol, WY. 2-3691; or Mrs. Anthony Bressman, LO 4-3282.

The Memorial Book is now being compiled for the High Holy Days at Temple Judea.

Single adults of the Temple, will hold their semi-annual Lox and Bagel Brunch and card game social, September 10, at 12:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall.

Also included in the afternoon activity will be dancing and refreshments.

Florence Schneider, 474-3133, has further information.

LOUANNE HEATH

(Family Life Columnist)

From Central Sierra County

With the squeak of rusty fingers and a cloud of dust rising from a neglected typewriter I'll try to get back in harness after a summer spent more than 200 miles from local news and familiar faces.

Despite predictions that 2 months spent more than 70 miles from the nearest supermarket, with three small children to feed and tend, would be ovdoing a good thing, it has been heaven and none of us are ready for the return to "civilization."

We are only 2 miles from a little store that sells everything from fishing worms to Frosties and, if you order — about a week in advance — Roland Higgins, the proprietor, will get you delicious steaks and pork chops or get a hunk of Mozzerella cheese for your lasagne!! Here in the dazzling sun and heavy heat the steady song of the crickets rather lulls you into a knowledge that it isn't necessary to rush through life pell-mell and what doesn't get done today or tomorrow can still be successfully accomplished next week.

What do you do with children when there are no Saturday matinees or television to watch? Well, we watched a mother ground squirrel introduce her five offspring to the world beyond the pile of cut logs where they were born. Timid at first they have grown into impertinent youngsters who sit angrily and scold our silver poodle, Little Bits, when he noses about too close to their territory. They appear on the front porch and look for pieces of popcorn or hold boisterous wrestling matches in the road — looking very much like the three young spectators who have been known to engage in a little similar behavior when brotherly love waned or there has been just too much "togetherness" for a while.

THERE HAVE BEEN FISH to catch, or try to catch, and swimming in an old-fashioned "hole" upriver from where the exciting business of digging gold from 40 feet beneath the surface of the earth is being conducted by the boys' Grandpa Morford, their Daddy and their Uncle Todd. On special occasions the youngest two have ridden about on the huge tractor and backhoe and 10-year-old Scot has become proficient enough in the operation to be able to drive the ponderous machine from the mine to the house, about a quarter of a mile, all alone on a bucking seat more than eight feet above the ground.

There have been deer to watch and feed and one docile doe let six-year-old Kevin get close enough to take some very good snapshots. Another sneaked up behind four-year-old Craig and watched with avid curiosity as he swung from a tree in the back yard. Still another doe, this one with a fawn, has not been too friendly and provided one of the summer's upsets when she attacked the dog, kicking him on the shoulder, when he came too close to her thicket.

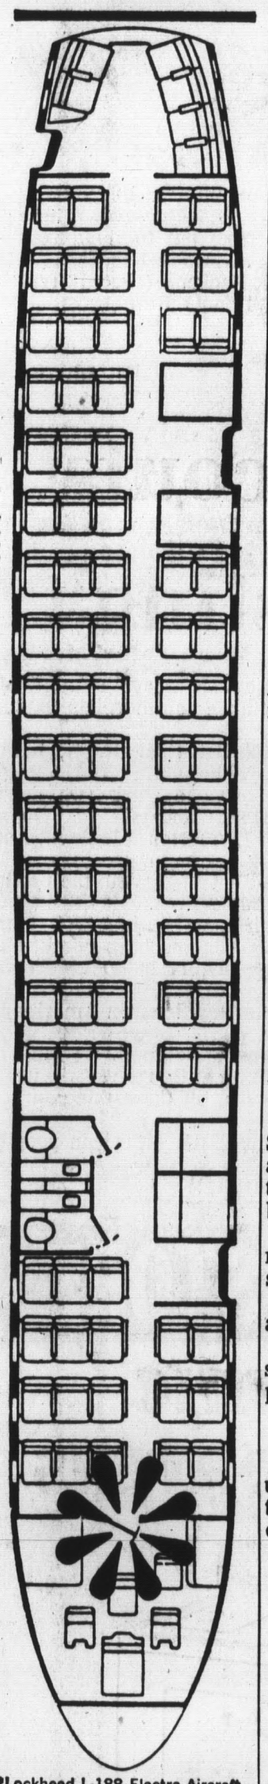
Air California again increases its service



*Lockheed L-188 Electra Aircraft operated by Air California.

Most airlines advertise "flights." But most people don't hire an entire airliner for a simple trip to the Orange County/Disneyland Area. Since all but a very few passeners require just one seat to sit in, we thought we'd let you know that Air California now flys 1600 seats per day, Mondays through Thursdays between San Francisco and Orange County Airport. On Sundays the total is 1450. And on Fridays the number swells to 1780. These seats depart conveniently throughout the day and night.

Pork Chops And Dressing

Good foggy morning, good cooks. Indeed our cup runneth over.

But, let's talk about something that can be changed — your dinner menu.

I've been testing entree receipes recently and have some gems to share with you.

This first recipe is for pork chops served with a dressing that is just delicious.

PORK CHOPS BASQUE

6 pork chops (1 inch thick)
½ lb. grated Swiss cheese
2 med. onions, chopped fine
2 tbsp. shortening
1-3 stick butter
1 cup bread crumbs
salt and pepper to taste

Saute the two chopped onions slowly in the two tablespoons shortening. Add the one-half pound grated Swiss cheese, then the one cup bread crumbs. Mix well.

Salt and pepper the six chops and place them in a baking dish (one that can be placed on the burner later) and pack the dressing on top. Dot generously with the one-third stick butter.

Bake approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes at 350-degrees, until brown. I covered mine for the last 15 minutes.

Remove chops to a serving platter and keep warm. Add approximately three-fourths cup water to the drippings and heat over medium flame until bubbly and a bit thickened. Pour over chops.

SINCE WE are thinking about pork I want to include this recipe for a cobbler that uses pork sausage. Doesn't that sound unusual? Well, this does have fruit in it, but it's a delicious main dish, rather than a dessert.

SAUSAGE COBBLER

2 cups tart applesauce
2 cups cooked sweet potatoes, cut bite-size
10 cooked pork sausage links, cut bite-size
¾ cup flour
1¾ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons sausage drippings
6 uncooked sausage links
1 red-skinned apple, sliced

Combine the two cups applesauce, ten cooked pork sausage links and two cups sweet potatoes. Pour into a 2-quart casserole that has been brushed with sausage drippings.

Prepare the biscuit dough in the following manner. Sift together the three-fourths cup flour with the one and three-fourths teaspoon baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Stir in the one-half cup milk and two tablespoons sausage drippings.

Drop the biscuit dough by spoon on top of sausage mixture. Decorate the top with the six uncooked sausage and slices of red apple.

Bake in hot oven (450-degrees) until well browned, about thirty minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

This dish served with a tossed green salad and a simple dessert makes a complete meal, the necessity of preparing other vegetable dishes is eliminated.

LEST the beef industry should think that I've given up on them I'll offer this recipe for Mock Enchiladas that uses ground beef and canned beans to make a quick and easy casserole.

1-3 cup chopped onion
1 teas. salt
¼ teas. pepper
1 one pound can chili con carne with beans
1 small bag corn chips
½ lb. diced American cheese

Brown the one pound of beef, add the one-third cup onion and cook until golden. Season with the one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Add the one pound can chili con carne.

Place a layer of corn chips in greased one and one-half quart casserole. Alternate layers of chili mixture, corn chips and cheese.

Bake in 350-degree oven approximately 20 minutes, or until heated through. Serves 6.

YOU KNOW that I can never finish off a column on dinner ideas without a dessert. It just wouldn't be complete.

Since the Gravenstein apples are coming in now how about making a delicious apple pie. A caramel apple pie, doesn't that sound good? Give it a try, your family will be glad you did.

CARAMEL APPLE PIE

2 cups sifted flour
1 teas. salt
¾ cup shortening
¼ cup water

Sift the two cups of flour and the one teaspoon salt together. Cut in shortening until mixture is the texture of small peas. Sprinkle the one-fourth cup water over the flour and mix with a fork. Press into a ball; divide in halves. Round up one half on slightly floured board and flatten slightly. Roll out one inch larger than the inverted pie pan. Ease into pan. Trim edge.

FILLING

1 cup brown sugar (packed)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons flour
6 cups diced apples

Combine the one cup sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon and two tablespoons flour. Mix lightly through the six cups apples. Heat in pastry lined pan. Cover with thin slices of the one-fourth cup butter. Roll out top crust. Place over apples. Trim edge. Flute. Bake 50 to 60 minutes in a 400 degree oven.

HERE ARE RESULTS OF TESTS ON DINING ROOM TABLES

Tests have been made on the ideal measurements for dining room tables, and because of these tests, here are some of the things you should keep in mind in selecting furniture for the dining room.

These tests have shown that about 24 inches of space should be provided for each person who is going to sit at the table.

The table should be at least 30 inches wide if you want two people to face each other across the table and have room for their place settings above the table and their feet underneath.

If space in your room is limited, it is better to choose a narrower chair than to save an inch or two on the table measurements.

Ideally, table legs should not be in the way of those sitting around the table even when it is extended. But they often are, so look to see how inconvenient this will be before making up your mind.

Is the height right? Most people will find a height of 28 to 29 inches from the floor to the table top most comfortable. The table should be between 10 to 12 inches higher than the chair seat.

To see furniture for any room in your home and to see interesting furniture ideas, stop in and browse around. There's no obligation.

Auto Service Beats Gun Club

Westlake Auto Service defeated the Golden Eagles Rod and Gun Club, 16-6, in the only game played last week in the Daly City Recreation Department's Open Division Slow-pitch Softball League.

CASEY'S STILL ALIVE ... It's possible that San Francisco-born Casey, who became baseball's mightiest folk hero through artistic failure, might not have failed, after all, and could still be in the literary limbo of laughing men and shouting children waiting for just one more crack at that flying spheroid.

In 1888 De Wolf Hopper introduced to the American stage a baseball poem called "Casey at the Bat," which had been written by Ernest Thayer, a former Harvard student from Massachusetts then staying in San Francisco.

While it's never been accurately recorded exactly when in 1888 Hopper first recited the poem (nor where, though it was probably at the Baldwin Theater, then on Market near Powell), legend reports that he did it as a kick-off for the upcoming baseball season in San Francisco, which was then represented in the California League by the Haverly Club.

ALTHOUGH it's been a periodic gambol of baseball historians to attempt pinniing down the game and/or players from which Thayer drew his inspiration, most authorities agree that the poem was an imaginary report of a mythical game.

Baseball at that time was still in a metamorphic process and constant rules changes tended to be looked upon as a matter of course rather than as revolutionary.

If one were to accept all the preceding facts and theories, it would have to be assumed that Thayer's imagined game was a composite of all the games he had witnessed prior to 1888, but that he had — not carelessly, but unconcernedly — associated his Mudville spectacle with the new 1888 rules.

LE PACINI

(Post Sports Columnist)

The Mighty Casey

Which is what made the martyred Casey a victim of the rapidly changing young sport, because until the season of 1888 — the season which, presumably, Thayer could not yet have witnesses — the batter was allowed four strikes!

FOR THOSE of you who have never broken 100 or rolled anything better than a 125, or who have been generally incompetent in any sporting endeavor, but who hav continued to love your particular sport and played at it when all good sense told you to quit wasting your time, we herewith present some solace, from the nationally syndicated intellectual columnist Sydney Harris:

"We (duffers) should not be put off by the fact that we are bad or stupid at some game ... (for) it has always been the duffers who have been the greatest lovers of any game for its own sake.

"The experts and professionals use a game for their own ends ...

To us duffers, the game is an end in itself; we love it not for what it can do for us, but for its own internal beauty and elegance and subtlety. We are true devotees.

"WHEN WE give up such a pursuit, it is generally because of vanity: it hurts too much to be treated with casual contempt by the masters. But this is like stopping playing the piano because you can't perform a Beethoven sonata ... Yet your spirit may be closer to the spirit of the composer than many a polished performer who is all technique and no soul.

"Without these legions of adoring ineffectuals, who would keep the experts alive and smug and flourishing? It is we poor plodding pawns who give the kings their moments of glory and their abiding sense of power."

ONE OF THOSE slick Sunday supplements recently carried a story enthusiastically reporting on a group of "hot tots" in Sunnyvale who make like race-car drivers every weekend in full scale replicas of midget racing cars.

"They (the parents) build their kids a genuine ... race car, put them behind the wheel, and let them go barreling down a track at speeds of up to 50 miles an hour ... If your child is between 5 and 15, he's eligible."

Well, fans, you can hang this one on the peg nearest Little League Syndrome. We have no further comment other than to wonder when adults are going to quit cheating children out of their childhood.

FISH STORY;

Alex Petropulos, local coach of championship kid basketball teams whose vocation is styling hair in his swank Crown-Zellerbach Building barbershop and whose obsession is fishing, has been telling a fish story which is, for once, believable.

After weeks of prompting, he finally consented to take his five-year-old daughter, Stacey, fishing with him at Lake Merced. "But," he warned her, "you'll get bored and daddy wants to fish today, so be prepared to keep yourself busy."

Stacey kept herself busy, alright. She caught three trout.

Daddy? HE got bored. He didn't catch a thing.

BASEBALL JOTTINGS— Experts will be experts, we suppose. When the Yankees dominated the American League and the National League was having all those close races, the experts were saying that was because the American League (outside of the great Yankees) was weak and the National League strong. This, at one time, led us to comment that this could all mean that the National League was uniformly weak rather than all strong.

In light of the Cardinals' runaway of the NL and the tight AL race this season, what this queer logic of the experts has done has been to lead them into an ambush. They either must admit that they were completely wrong, or,, if they wish to be consistent, submit to the next most logical answer.

In the latter case, they would have to reason in the following way: The American League is strong. The National League couldn't have gone from strong to weak in just one year. Therefore, the National League is still strong. Which logically makes the 1967 Cardinals easily the greatest team in the history of baseball.

ONE TRADE Giant fans never weep over, and should, was the one which sent Randy Hundley — as a throw-in — to the Cubs for Lindy McDaniel. We bring this up only because Giant chattel Bob Barton, a great receiver who's always had a no-hit label glued to his bat, is currently hitting over .300 in the Coast League.

What is significant about it is that he's doing it for Tacoma, a Cub farm team to whom the Giants loaned Barton.

Question of the week is, what is it that Cub management does for Giant catchers?

TAG END: So you think you've seen some hot bat streaks? In 1925 Lefty O'Doul, playing for Salt Lake in the Pacific Coast League against Vernon, stroked 19 hits in 21 times up over a span of four games.

In other league action, the Jets picked up their fifth win against one loss in defeating the Last Six, 41-34.

High scorers for the Jets were Russ Rege, 12, and Ken Lewis, 11. Jim McKeever scored 18 points for the Last Six.

Evergreen Is New Plant of the Week

Lagunaria pattersonii, an evergreen, flowering tree from the South Pacific and Australia, is The Post Plant of the Week. A branch of this tree was shown at last Monday's meeting of the California Horticultural Society in San Francisco by Keith Jongewaard of Kentfield.

This Lagunaria tree with its attractive fragrant flowers of white flushed pink, is recommended for areas such as Foster City and along the coast as it is highly salt tolerant. It may be a little difficult to find but it is listed as available by Mildred E. Mathias and Elizabeth McClintock in their "Checklist of Woody Ornamental Plants of California. Also, Marin County members of the Horticultural Society, report it as growing along the lagoons in their area.

According to those who know the tree well it has a number of common names: Primrose tree, Orchid tree, Tulip tree and Cow-Itch tree. We believe the very decorative flowers may account for the first three common names but are somewhat at a loss for the fourth. However, the seed capsules, which hang on for a long time and are covered with short, stiff hairs that irritate the skin may be the contributing factor to this last name. Even so these prickly capsules are highly coveted by flower arrangers for working into weaths at Christmas time, as they split into five sections revealing bright, brown seeds.

The Lagunaria pattersonii is a small, shapely tree with an adult height of around thirty-five feet. Keith Jongewaard estimated his tree to be about this height. The branches are very regularly spaced. It is especially esteemed in ocean communities for the wearing qualities of the dark, olive-green foliage an the substantial beauty of the pale pink fleshy flowers. The foliage burns when temperatures drop to twenty-five degrees or lower but quickly recovers. It is a pyramidal tree until it reaches old age then it sometimes develops a rather spreading flat top.

It does poorly in shallow, heavy or sterile soil and shows it in a thinning out of the foliage. The sandy soils along our coastline, fortified with humus and enriched with fertilizer are what this tree likes. We could find no one that knew of any insect problems but one member did report that bees died after visiting the flowers. We checked back through our encyclopedias but could find no verification of this report.

Those who knew the tree suggested it be planted individually as a garden tree or in groups as a showy windbreak or screen and as a most exciting street tree. They suggest that home owners keep in mind that it does its best flowering under coastal conditions where fog, moist salt air and an ever present breeze keeps the air stirring.

Gray Foliage Helps End 'Monotony'

The use of gray foliage in the landscape serves a variety of purposes. It breaks the monotony of an all - green garden, contrasts in a natural way with rocks and wood; and, because of it's neutral color, can be used to set off almost any other shrub, be it green, variegated or purple in color.

In size, there is a wide range of gray shrubs to choose from. Topping the list is the graceful Olive tree, and at the bottom is the ground-hugging Snow-in-Summer. In between are all manner of nice things for the garden from neat little accent plants to hedgerow material.

And, there are all shades of gray as well. The Silver King Artemisia has probably the most radiant silver-white foiage of all, though some of the dusty Millers might offer an argument on this. At the other end of the gray scale, closer to green in color, are such useful shrubs as the Tobira Pittosporum and Pineapple Guava. They all contrast and blend beautifully with each other and with other colored foliage shrubs in the garden.

A favorite with many gardeners is the summer-blooming Bush Morning Glory, a shrubby member of this sometimes troublesome family of vines. Bush Morning Glory (Convolvulus cneorum) has silky gray foilage and open faced white morning glory flowers that mark it as a standout. Give it a sunny spot for lots of blooms.

Bush Germander (Teucrium fruticans) is another excellent shrub for the garden, especially where a trim hedge of unusual quality is called for. This light gray shrub has insignificant but pleasant blue flowers, though trimming usually reduces these to a minimum.

Dusty Miller (Senecio cineraria) is another of the light, bright grays for garden use, both the low, edging variety and the taller, bush-like variety with silvery, fern-like leaves. Both bear yellow flowers which contrast cheerfully with the foliage.

There are many other possibilities such as the Bush Poppy with its canary yellow flowers; Leucophylla, gray with bell-shaped, rose colored blooms; Silvery yarrow and many more.

S.F. Man Arrested In Brisbane

A young San Francisco man was arrested early Sunday morning in Brisbane after a South San Francisco policeman spotted his automobile speeding from the scene of a burglary, authorities said.

Police said Officer Ron Petrocchi spotted a light colored sedan pulling away from the rear of the Su-Bonn Apparel Shop on Airport Boulevard about 3:30 a.m.

Upon investigation, Petrocchi discovered the rear door of the shop had been pried open. He radioed a description of the car to Brisbane police, and Joe W. Callaway, a 21-year-old unemployed porter, was arrested a few minutes later.

Brisbane officers John Gurillo and Robert Hunt said they discovered about $1,200 worth of women's apparel in Callaway's vehicle when they stopped him at the intersection of Bayshore Boulevard and Valley Drive.

Dwarf Shrubs Delightful To View and to Cultivate

By IVA NEWMAN

Tucked in a corner of almost every botanical garden or arboretum there will usually be a delightful planting devoted to dwarf trees and shrubs. Strybing Arboretum in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, has a rather extensive one. In these collections it is not unusual to find evergreen trees like the spruce only a few feet tall, yet 50 years old or more.

These are Nature's own "bonsai" and are truly dwarf plants — gems of the world of horticulture and, without doubt, collector's items. Exceedingly lucky is the home owner who has one of these rare oddities of the plant kingdom because they are quite expensive when one of any appreciable size is found.

But "dwarfness" is a relative thing and in our home landscape we are looking for plants that will grow "in scale," not necessarily oddities of nature. The choice of "low-growing" plants is wide, they are readily available and inexpensive. In addition to low-growing plants there are some that are normally large that can be trimmed or pruned so that they can be kept small and in scale with the home landscape.

Nurserymen have also discovered that it is possible to make a normally large plant into a dwarf or low-growing form by grafting it on different roots. In this instance the "dwarfing" characteristic is in the roots. Classic examples are the dwarf citrus and the apple. In fact, by using different kinds of rootstocks it is possible to have the same apple on trees that are very dwarf, medium-sized or fairly tall. And, in all cases, the size of the fruit and it's flavor are in no way affected. Naturally the smaller trees will not bear as many fruits per tree, however, many of the dwarf trees bear a larger crop for its size than the corresponding big tree.

Know Mature Size

Your American Association of Nurseryman knows exactly how tall and wide every plant in his sales yard will grow when it reaches maturity, which may happen in five, ten or twenty years. This is important to every homeowner.

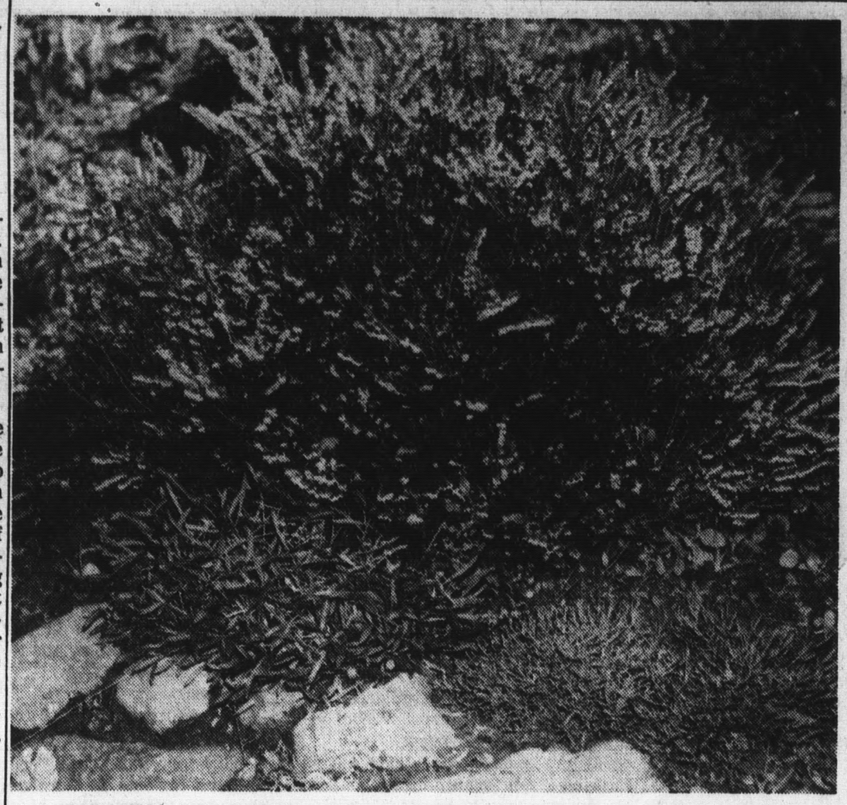
Knowledge of the breadth or width of a plant is sometimes just as important as the height. Landscape experts point out that when planting under a window, for instance, the main concern is height. But if that same plant were to be used next to an entrance, or along a walk or drive, the ultimate width, rather than height, would determine its proper use.

Your nurseryman also knows which of the "large" trees and shrubs can be kept low by trimming and pruning. Some examples of "forest" trees that can be grown low are the hemlock and the Japanese Black pine. The common or Canadian Hemlock, Tsuga canadensis, is considered one of the finest of evergreen hedge plants, also one of the easiest to care for. The Japanese Black Pine is a favorite bonsai plant that can be trained to any size.

On the other hand the owner of a small garden should not plant a spruce tree or a Monterey pine as they resent pruning. The pine will develop galls on the cut limbs that kill these branches and keep the trees unsightly. Both of these trees must be planted in a carefully chosen location where they can be allowed to grow to their full size.

Low-growing plants are quite necessary for the small home landscape, but you should also use some that are taller, too. In fact many of our best landscape designers advise three levels of planting in every garden regardless of its size. In getting these three levels try to select those that will be in proper proportion when they reach their full height which may be some ten to fifteen years from now.

The Japanese maple, in one of it's many forms can be used for middle and taller level planting in the small garden. The tallest of these maples never get so tall that they dwarf a single-story home and they are so dainty of leaf and limb structure that they fit in. Acer japonicum the "Fullmoon Maple" makes a small tree to around 20-feet, and Acer japonicum 'Aureum' the "Golden Fullmoon Maple" both are delightful subjects for the small garden. Also Acer Palmatum, much more widely known and grown, is one of the airiest of maples. It grows to a height of about twenty-feet, has deeply cut five to nine toothed lobed leaves that are scarlet in early spring, soft green in summer and bright scarlet in the fall before they fall. There are several grafted garden varieties of this maple which are smaller than the seedling trees and more weeping in their branch habit. These are the maples that are popularly used as tub plants because they are so showy. You can get them with either red or green leaves and several leaf forms. By selecting among the many varieties you can have them in a mature height of three to twenty feet.



CALLUNA VULGARIS a low mounding heath with a mature height of about two feet and a spread of three feet or more. An ideal plant for the well-drained sunny border in a small garden that is watered frequently. Soft pink bells on long spikes, good for cutting, cover the plant from August through October.

Azales and Rhododendrons

Azaleas are a dwarf shrub that can be had in several heights as well as flower colors. The Belgian indicas are the ones you usually receive from the florist as these were developed especially for forcing, but they do make good garden plants in the right location and they seldom get over two-feet high. The Southern indicas are faster growing, more vigorous and get taller and some of them will take considerably more sun than the Belgian indicas. The Kurume azaleas are hardiest and easiest to grow as they are essentially an outdoor plant. They are densely foliaged with small leaves and prolific flower producers and they will take morning sun. The Brooks hybrid azaleas, bred in Modesto, California for growing in hot areas, have large attractive flowers and a compact plant habit.

Some of the dwarf rhododendrons such as 'Bow Bells,' 'Snow Lady,' 'Blue Diamond,' 'Cilpinense' and 'Moonstone' are excellent small garden plants as they stay dependably low. Check on their heights as they vary from variety to variety.

Other dwarf shrubs that may be expected to grow no more than three-feet in height are: Convolvulus eneorum, the evergreen bush morning glory; Daphne odora, the much-loved fragrant flowering shrub of late winter; Erica blanda or verticillata with its long, tubular, rosy-red blooms; Helianthemum nummularium, the sunrose that stays about ten-inches high but spread to around three-feet and covers itself in lovely bright flowers in your choice of colors; Loeselia mexicana, a bushy shrub with bright red flowers in late winter, reportedly drought resistant, and Viburnum davidi, an unusual little evergreen shrub with dull green, leathery foliage and flat heads of pure white flowers that are followed by indo-blue berries.

There are many more interesting and lovely dwarf shrubs that can be used to turn a little garden into an elfin fairyland. Just be sure to check on height and spread also the response to cutting of each one before buying or planting as this will not only cut maintenance but help in your selection of planting locations.

Foods Free of Residue

"American consumers of all ages may be confident that their foods are free from harmful residues, due to FDA's tolerance-setting and enforcement procedures," according to the federal agency's official publication.

The Food and Drug Administration further asserts that "analyses of raw agricultural products as well as total diet surveys show that pesticide residues are much lower than the amounts judged to be safe by FDA and the World Health Organization."

These conclusions are drawn in FDA papers, official magazine of the Food and Drug Administration, in an article reprinted on August 10 in the August issue of NAC News and Pesticide Review, official publication of the National Agricultural Chemicals Association.

In making its "market basket" or "total diet" studies, FDA buys in retail food stores, "as would any consumer, a diet list of 82 foods in a quantity sufficient to satisfy the nation's largest appetite — a 17 to 19-year-old-male — for two weeks."

The food is prepared for eating and then it's analyzed by laboratory scientists using the most sensitive analytical techniques yet devised. These techniques can detect some pesticides in amounts as small as a few parts per billion.

FDA, in addition to its market basket studies, every year takes thousands of food samples throughout the nation and analyzes them for pesticide residues. In this surveillance program, samples are collected throughout the year at producing, shipping, and destination points.

During a three-year period ended in June last year, 49,356 domestic samples and 3,836 import samples were examined. A total of 81 different chemicals were found in domestic food samples during the period. Thirty-three chemicals were common every year. In general, the total residue levels on imported foods were higher than those of domestic foods and similar chemicals were found at about the same frequency.

FDA's primary objective, the article notes, is to protect the public from foods that could be harmful. Federal law provides that tolerances be established on the basis of the raw agricultural commodity as it moves in inerstate commerce. But foods are washed, trimmed, cooked, and prepared in many different ways, "which affect the remaining residues." Hence, the "market basket" or "total diet" studies by FDA "provide the most reliable index of the residues being consumed in the diet of the United States."

These procedures show that there is a wide margin of safety. However, the agency continued, "the frequency and levels of residues in the nation's food supply must not be permitted to increase unnecessarily."

It adds: "Surveillance and control must continue at current levels to detect and eliminate problems arising from unexpected, unanticipated, and unavoidable sources, as well as from misuse."

Seek WAC Volunteers

The Women's Army Corps is seeking 35 volunteers from northern and central California and western Nevada for enlistment in September to form the Golden West Platoon, whose members will train together for eight weeks at Fort McClellan, Alabama.

Qualified young women may choose specialized job training in one of 35 fields open to WACs, such as medical technician, public information, data processing, personnel or intelligence. They work side-by-side with men, and receive the same pay and allowances.

WACs are assigned to Army posts throughout the United States, from Seattle to Washington, D. C. They may volunteer for overseas duty in places like Hawaii, Germany or Japan. Some, in the administrative field, have volunteered for and are currently serving in Vietnam.

If you are single, a high school graduate, and between the ages of 18 and 35, see Sergeant Stewman at 212 Second Ave. San Mateo to find out more about the opportunities offered by the Women's Army Corps.

Southeast Asia In Era of Cooperation

By KIM WILLENSON

BANGKOK (UPI) — The straws in the wind in free Southeast Asia point to a new era of regional cooperation for economic advancement, if the war for this part of the world ever ends.

In the last two years, Indonesia has come back into the fold, the quarrelsome dispute between the Philippines and Malaysia appears to have been put on the road to settlement, and Malaysia and Singapore seem finally to have achieved a workable relationship.

An Asian Development Bank and two new regional bodies for economic cooperation have been set up—the Asian and Pacific Council (ASPAC) of ten nations running from Korea in the north to New Zealand in the south, and the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN).

ASEAN, formed by the Philippines, Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia and Singapore here in Bangkok, was basically a device to get Indonesia into what used to be called the Association of Southeast Asia (ASA) without loss of face.

Despite its youth, ASEAN probably has brighter prospects for concrete achievement than either ASPAC or ASA, which is likely to be disbanded at a meeting in Kuala Lumpur next month.

The creator was obviously smiling when he made these five nations.

Their combined population—and therefore labor pool industrial and agricultural market—stands at an estimated 230 million, which is bigger than the European Common Market.

They comprise one of the richest remaining lodes of natural resources in the world. They have enormous reserves of oil, iron ore, rubber, tin, copper, rare metals, wood, limestone and other minerals—in short, all the building blocks of industry.

If sufficient incentives are ever granted to their farmers, and this is a principal issue in Thailand, the Philippines and Indonesia, agricultural potential here is enough to feed two or three times the present population.

The five are arranged quite conveniently around the perimeter of the South China Sea, with an abundance of excellent natural ports to facilitate commerce.

Lastly, except for Thailand, the native languages are all rooted in Malay, and Chinese and English are also widely spoken, eliminating serious language barriers. A majority of the combined populace is literate at a low level.

But for all the natural blessings, it is man himself who must put them to work and this is something that has not happened in Southeast Asia so far.

Regional Government Need Is Said 'Vital' to Bay Area

The matter of "Governing Regional Functions" is one of the most important questions facing the Bay Area, and a decision which citizens of the region should take an active part in making, Stanley E. McCaffrey, president of the Bay Area Council, declared Thursday, in an address before the San Mateo Rotary Club at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in San Mateo.

With Bay Area population doubling every 20 years, and with regional problems becoming more complex, McCaffrey stated that some form of coordinating the management of various regional functions is vital if the Bay Area is to develop in an orderly way and be an attractive place in which to work and live in the future. He pointed out how the various regional functions are importantly interrelated and how their solutions have an impact one upon the other. Citing waste disposal as an example, McCaffrey said, "If you burn waste, you contribute toward air pollution; if you dump it along the shoreline, you contribute to bay fill and water pollution."

Although suggestions for some form of metropolitan government have been made for many years, McCaffrey stated that it was not until the advent of regional problem such as air pollution, which transcend city and county boundaries, that regional systems for governing such area-wide functions were actually developed. He pointed to the organization of the Air Pollution Control District, Bay Area Rapid Transit District, Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, and Bay Conservation and Development Commission, as examples of present forms of regional government in the Bay Area.

He reported that a bill (SCR 41) was passed in the recent session of the State Legislature (introduced by the late State Senator J. Eugene McAteer of San Francisco, and of which, Assembly Carl Britschgi of San Mateo County is a co-author) establishing an eight-member Legislative Committee to conduct hearings in the Bay Area on governing regional functions, with the responsibility of recommending to the Legislature in Committee, composed of seven representatives of regional January 1969 what form, if any, of regional government should be established. This Legislative Committee will be assited by a 37-member Citizens' Advisory agencies, 18 from cities and counties, and 12 Bay Area citizens selected by the Legislative Committee. Assemblyman John Knox of Richmond, Chairman of the Assembly Committee on Municipal and County Government, will probably be named as chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee, McCaffrey said.

He noted that this bill represents a compromise between measures introduced earlier by Senator McAteer and Assemblyman Knox. The Knox bill generally was intended to support the proposal, which the Association of Bay Area Governments had developed during the past year. McAteer's original bill would have created a commission to study Bay Area regional organization and to submit recommendations to the 1969 Legislature.

Under the ABAG plan, McCaffrey noted, ABAG would be established as a form of regional government, with taxing and bonding powers and with authority over the four regional functions: land-use planning, airports, waste disposal and recreation and parks.

The original McAteer proposal, the speaker pointed out stressed that consideration should be given to all regional functions before an area-wide governmental system is set up.

Day-Dream Film to Start Coast Series

"Youth's Struggle for Identity" is the timely theme for the fall film series presented by Pacifica's Community Cultural Co-ordinating Committee. Dr. Walcott Beatty, professor of psychology at San Francisco State College, will begin the series on Friday, September 15, with a prize-winning film, "Age of Day Dreaming."

There will be a brief explanation of the film in relation to the series theme before the film and a group discussion afterward.

Using the same format in the ensuing three weeks, three other films will be shown: "The Sun and the Shadow," "Nobody Waved Goodbye" and "The Game of Love." The program will be held at the Cabrillo School, Crespi and Ledera Way in Pacifica from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. One unit of credit in Psychology 149 is available to those who wish it.

Dr. Beatty will use the films as an aid in explaining the problems and joys the youths of today face in our rapidly changing society. The search to find oneself has become extremely difficult in a world where there are just too many ways to turn, he feels.

What 'Head Start' Hopes to Offer

Antonio Montoya, commissioner of the South San Francisco Head Start Program, which was endorsed by the County Human Resources Commission, recently stated that, "Juanito, like Johnny, can't read or write Spanish, let alone English."

Montoya further reported that because of this a bilingual Head Start program fed by anti-poverty funds, which will place emphasis upon pre-school training and orientation of children in Mexican-American families is in the near future.

"A voluntary pre-school program is now being operated in this area with teachers and parents donating their time," Montoya noted. "There is however, a greater need for an expanded program."

An estimate has it that approximately 50 students could be reached through the new program.

Federal anti-poverty funds, originally scheduled for other projects, would be transferred to the school project. The program possibly could make use of the $9000 allocated for the San Mateo Parent's Nursury school.

12 Injured in Two County Crashes

Two accidents within less than five minutes of each other although at opposite ends of the county injured a total of 12 persons Tuesday, California Highsons last Tuesday, California Highway patrolmen reported.

The first was a broadside collision at 6:50 p.m. on Cabrillo highway at Alemany Blvd., near Daly City, patrolmen said. Cars were driven by Pamela Elizabeth Caley, 16, a Westmoor High School student of 96 Southdale Av., Daly City, and Lois Pardue, 23, a housewife of 111 Franz Ct., Pacifica. Taken to Mary's Help Hospital were Mrs. Pardue; two of her children, Jeffrey, 4 and Paul, 2; Miss Caley, Lee Black of 2213 Palmetto Av., Pacifica, and Lenda Further, 18, 247 Avalon, Daly City.

Six persons were also involved a few minutes later on the Bayshore Freeway, north of the Holly Av. overpass in San Carlos, in a three-car, rear-end collision.

According to patrolmen, cars driven by Leroy Starr, 22, a clerk of 579 San Diego Av., Daly City and Donald Ray McCunne, 25, of San Jose, had apparently stopped for traffic congestion.

Starr's car was struck in the rear by a southbound auto driven by Edward Alphonse Parent, 26, a Brigham Young University student from Provo, Utah.

Injured were McCunne; two passengers in his car, Thomas and Beverley Bradley, 38, San Jose; two passengers in Starr's car, Mary Vernazza, 42, and Nina Vernazza, 19, both of 457 E. Market St., Daly City, and Sydney Brown Parent, 24, of Provo.

Housewife Attacked, Man Held

A young Pacifica housewife reportedly was raped in her own car in Millbrae early last Thursday, but kept cool, gave her attacker the telephone number of a girl friend when he said he'd call her again, the phone number leading Millbrae and Pacifica police to him at 9:45 a.m. in Pacifica.

Millbrae Police Chief Larry Pickett said the girl, 23, had gone to the South San Francisco produce market for a job interview at 3 a.m. but told her interviewer wouldn't be in till 5, so she headed south on El Camino Real looking for a coffee shop.

A man in an old convertible pointed to her wheels in the 1500 block of El Camino in Millbrae, indicating trouble, and when she stopped he jumped in with her and talked her into going with him for coffee, it was reported.

At Broadway and El Camino in Millbrae, however, he pulled a knife and forced her to drive to Broadway and Meadow Glen, where he assaulted her, Pickett said. The attack occurred after they had talked awhile, but she then made an attempt to escape from the car, police learned.

He then asked for her phone number and was given the girl friend's number, which he caller later this morning — but not until Pickett had arranged with her to set up a meeting

This was at Chubby's restaurant in Pacifica. Pickett, Lt. Charles Loustalot and Sgt. William Stevenson went there, along with Pacifica Inspector Al Tebaldi, who made the actual arrest.

NIKE Site Agreement Approved

Supervisors approved an agreement last week with the city of Pacifica for the use of an old Nike site there as an emergency operating center for Civil Defense activities.

The property is an underground bunker with six-foot-thick walls which will be refurbished at a cost of $8,935 for county use.

In other actions, the board:

Appointed Elio Fontana of Colma, a member of the Jefferson Union High School District board of trustees, as the county's delegate to the airport advisory committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments. The committee will study aspects of creating a regional airport for the Bay Area.

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

What is malocclusion?

Malocclusion is irregularity of tooth position and poor fitting together of the teeth on closing the jaws. Such irregularity not only may interfere with chewing and with speech but also may lead to disease of the gums and other supporting structures of the teeth (periodontal disease). Malocclusion may also produce deformities of the face.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for some; however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prolong the use of your natural teeth. Dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

Robbery Suspects Nabbed

A Daly City roadblock last night netted three men suspected of robbing a liquor store, less than 20 minutes after the crime was reported.

Police arrested James Moore, 42, a warehouseman of San Francisco, Johnny Westbrook, 32, a plasterer, San Francisco, and David L. Brown, 39, a pipe stripper, of Oakland, after their car was spotted heading towards San Francisco along the Skyline Boulevard.

Under the front and rear seats, police allegedly found some $540 in five, ten and 20 dollar bills.

A trio walked into the Highland Liquor Store in Millbrae shortly before 7:30 p.m. and while one of the men asked the clerk for a special brand of cheese another allegedly cleaned out the cash register.

All three men fled in a car waiting outside the store.

An unidentified witness to the incident gave police the license number and description of the vehicle and an all-points bulletin was flashed to other Peninsula Police units.

Officers Ralph Warren and Bob Sola, stationed at the corner of Skyline and St. Francis Boulevard saw the car pass and gave chase.

Overtaking the suspects' car, police pulled it to the side of the road and arrested the trio.

The three were booked at county jail at 1:30 a.m. today on charges of grand theft.

County authorities indicated a similar incident had occurred Thursday evening at a Belmont liquor store.

Whitmore Opens DC Quarters

Whitmore for Congress Headquarters are now open in Daly City and plans are being made for a big Open House on Tuesday, September 19. Under the direction of Mrs. Patsy Drain of Daly City, co-ordinator of the Whitmore campaign, the office is being maintained throughout the day, Monday through Saturday.

Visitors and volunteers are invited to call for information or to drop in for campaign signs, bumper strips, and campaign literature. The headquarters are located at 6719 Mission Street, just south of the War Memorial Building.

Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore is a candidate for the Eleventh U.S. Congressional District seat left vacant by the recent death of J. Arthur Younger. A special election has been set for December 12. The primary will be November 14.

The open house celebration for North County friends and supporters of Whitmore will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Whitmore will be present to greet the public and the Daly City Committee for Whitmore.

Formation of a county-wide committee of mayors and city councilmen for Whitmore, a group that will participate actively in his congressional campaign, was announced today by city council members Karney Barberian of San Bruno and Paul C. Keckley of Redwood City.

Barberian and Keckley will organize the elective officers who are backing Whitmore throughout San Mateo County. "We already have received many offers of support and help from elected officials, regardless of their political identity," Barberian said. "We expect a majority representation among mayors and councilmen on the Whitmore team because these people are especially familiar with his record of excellence in administration."

Councilman Keckley, serving as co-chairman with Barberian, has been active in Redwood City civic and political affairs since establishing his home in the area more than 15 years ago. A University of California graduate and member of UC's 1949 Rose Bowl team, Keckley received his master's degree at Stanford. He is a professional physical therapist.

In announcing his support of the Whitmore campaign Keckley pointed to the sheriff's lifelong residence in San Mateo County and "his proven accomplishment in office over the past 16 years that has earned Earl Whitmore the confidence and trust of the county's elected officials."

Keckley commented that the mayors and councilmen group is "pleased to be associated with a candidate of high ability and integrity—one whose record we all know."

S.S.F. Man's View

Little Chance Seen For Mideast Pact

"There appears to be little likelihood of a negotiated settlement of the Middle East conflict, and the only hope for peace in that part of the world is a permanent cease-fire," a South San Francisco resident just returned from a five-week tour of Israel said this week.

Insurance man Roger H. Wood, an elder of the Burlingame First Presbyterian Church, arrived at this opinion from impressions gained during a 34-day American Israel Cultural Foundation tour this summer.

"The Arabs feel any negotiations with Israel would result in loss of face for the Arab countries," he said, "and they simply will not accept this."

Wood said, however, that he observed some hopeful signs of co-operation between the Arabs and the Israelis, and "the most optimistic possibility is that of a conttinued mutual cease-ifre without formal arrangements."

Arabs in the Old City of Jerusalem, though publicly decrying everything Israeli, are accepting, to some extent, the reality of co-existence with the Jews, he said.

"A waiter at our hotel in the Jewish section of the city had been fighting for the Jordanian army three weeks before we arrived. He and several other Arabs we met during our stay wages and better living conditions," Wood said.

Israeli authorities have also raised salaries of municipal employes in the Old City since taking over administration of all Jerusalem, he said.

The Israelis have undertaken numerous beautification projects in Jerusalem and in the Gaza Strip, "and they obviously do not anticipate any negotiations which would return these areas to Arab control," Wood said.

The Jews also intend to hold the 15-mile-wide strip of "high ground" overlooking their former border with Syria, he said.

Shelled for 19 Years

"Syrian guns have been shelling the kibbutz in this area from the heights for the past 19 years," he said.

Wood said he saw little development of the area with the exception of the gun emplacements. Israel is preparing plans for agricultural development of the region.

It is also unlikely that Israel will ever give up the settled area around Baniyas, one of the sources of the Jordan River, he said.

"The biggest problem now facing Israel and the Arab countries in connection with these border areas is that of individual property rights," Wood said.

"This will cause continuing animosity on the individual level. It will be difficult for the Arabs and the Israelis to resolve personal differences while the Jews are living in houses once occupied by the Arabs," he said.

During the tour, Wood spent five days on a kibbutz in Israel, and visited several of the collective farms for briefer periods.

"These farms began as completely collective projects, with no private ownership, but the farmers now purchase and own their own clothes and other personal possessions," he said.

"Most Americans would not be happy living on a kibbutz, but you must understand this was the only way to get things started after Israel was created. The Zionists purchased the lands, and have retained control of them since Israel became a state.

"They are very similar to the collective farms operated in Russia, except the workers can quit whenever they please in Israel," he said.

"The kibbutzim are among the most productive farms in the world," according to Wood.

"They are administered by three elected officers, and everyone else works," he said.

"The kibbutzim are among the most productive farms in the world, according to Wood.

"They are administered by three elected officers, and everyone else works," he said.

"As the workers grow older, they are required to work fewer hours each day, but every adult on the Kibbutz contributes toward production to some extent."

Each Kibbutz represents a community of 200-800 persons, and has its own schools and other facilities. Only about five per cent of Israel's population now lives on the collective farms.

The American Israel Cultural Foundation tour began early in July, and terminated in August, after refugees began returning across the Jordan River.

The tour group included representatives from the clergy, municipal governments and the academic world. Wood was the only representative from the western states.

Belgium Boy Scout Outlines Journey

By GEORGE PODEVYN

On July 29, 253 Belgium Boy Scouts, began a visit of four weeks to the U.S.A. The end of this visit was San Francisco, where all the Belgium Boy Scouts were guests of an American family.

The Belgium contingent departed from Brussels on two Boeings of the World Airways to Spokane, Wash., enroute to participate in the 12th annual World Boy Scout Jamboree in Farragut State Park, Idaho.

From August 1-9, we camped in the spirit of friendship and peace with 12,000 other brother scouts.

At this Jamboree we met many American boy scouts and had the occasion to form friendships and exchange addresses so that we may correspond with them.

We were pleased about the visit of Vice President Humphrey and Astronaut Scott Carpenter to our sub-camps.

What was striking to us was the friendship, the helpfulness and the good organization of the Americans.

After the Jamboree, we departed on eight Greyhound buses for a trip of 10 days through the Western States.

We visited Yellowstone National Park, Salt Lake City, Zion National Park and the Grand Canyon.

We were received very warmly and kindly. We stayed in Salt Lake City for two nights with a family.

We also visited Hollywood, Disneyland, and several museums in Southern California.

The last trip was between Los Angeles and San Francisco. The reception in Civic Center was nice.

I stayed with the Bauer family in Daly City and have had a nice stay.

We visited many interesting places in San Francisco, a really nice town.

I love the American life and your friendship.

Dope Charge Jails Man On Freeway

A San Rafael man was booked on a variety of narcotics charges and for driving a stolen car by Highway Patrolmen last Tuesday when they became suspicious of the car he was driving because it only had one headlight.

Booked at the County Jail on charges of car theft, possession of a hypodermic kit, possession of narcotics, possession of hypontic drugs and possession of dangerous drugs was Paul Edward Deal of San Rafael.

Patrolmen Grant L. Hagen and Larry Rolin reported when they searched Deal after stopping his car south of Hickey Blvd. in South San Francisco, they found a pill box in his jacket containing three tan pills with yellow spots, two yellow and pale blue pills, and a small yellow pill.

Pacifica Youth Accidentally Shot

A 16-year-old Pacifica teenager was wounded accidentally Thursday when a gun he threw on a bed discharged.

Pacifica police said they were informed of the accident by Kaiser Hospital authorities in South San Francisco, where James J. Smith of No. 4 Duran Court, Pacifica, was taken by his father, Albert C. Smith.

Young Smith, who was reported to have suffered a wound on the right side of the chest, was transferred to the Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco.

According to police, the youth was injured shortly after 3:15 p.m.

An older brother, Dennis M. Smith, a San Mateo policeman, told authorities the gun discharged when the victim threw it on a downstairs bed.

SSF Firm Gets Big Job

Associated Construction and Engineering Co. of South San Francisco, has been awarded a contract for the design, engineering and construction of a new 72,500 square foot plant and office complex for H. S. Crocker Company Inc., in Baltimore.

The new structure in Canton Industrial Park will replace Crocker's present Baltimore facilities, which the company has outgrown. H. S. Crocker is one of the nation's largest printing and lithograph companies, with headquarters in San Bruno.

For the first time in the Baltimore area and one of the first times in the eastern United States, the construction will consist of tilt-up concrete panels and glued, laminated roof beams. This method, while still allowing ample architectural latitude, is considerably less expensive than the steel framework commonly used.

Bruno Chess Club Champ

The San Bruno Chess Club recently captured the Bay Area championship by defeating a team from Lockheed. This is the fifth time the club has been Bay Area champion.

Team members include Lou Korens (captain) from Daly City, Wade Hendricks and Saul Udman from South San Francisco, Dan McLeod, Fred Scheoene, and Paul Zink from San Bruno, Ernie Clot and Preston Mendell from Millbrae, and Roy Willis from San Mateo.

The Club serves the entire North Peninsula, and meets on Monday evenings, 7:30 'til 11 at Parkside School, 1801 Niles Avenue, San Bruno. Visitors are always welcome.

Pacifican Is Injured

A 17-year-old Pacifica girl was taken to Peninsula Hospital for observation of possible back and rib injuries received when her car smashed into a tree in San Bruno August 22.

Gwendolyn Gabriel of 127 Clarendon Road, Pacifica, was not admitted to the hospital, however, San Bruno police said. She had complained of back and rib pains, they said.

Police explained that the girl had been attempting to cross San Bruno Avenue from the Camino Plaza, when she increased her speed to avoid a collision.

She lost control of the car and it surged ahead, jumping a curb on the north side of San Bruno Avenue.

$400 Theft In San Bruno

More than $400 worth of property was taken from a Toyon Way residence in San Bruno sometime over the weekend, police reported.

Two watches, three rings, two rifles and a purse were taken from the home of William G. Gallegvillos, officers said.

Entrance to the house was gained through forcing a basement window.

Attendance Mark Set

Latin-American Concert Slated

For those who are interested in the truly authentic Latin sound and production numbers the "Festival de la Cancion Latino-Americana" is coming to the Cow Palace, Friday, September 8th at 8 p.m.

For the aficinados of Latin American, Central American and Mexican music — this event covers the leading music-makers such as "El Trio Los Panchos"—known to many Americans for their instrumental backing of Edie Gorme's best selling records with a Latin beat. Also included in the festival will be one of the top movie stars and singers known throughout the Latin American world: Maria Victoria. She is considered one of the all time favorites.

This event will be capped off with Xavier Cugat, acting as master of ceremonies and musical director. Xavier Cugat will present specialities of his many best-selling records and shows with his newest leading lady, Charo. They are currently appearing at Bimbo's, August 24-September 6. The musical backing for the whole show will be composed of 30 top musicians under the direction of Geraldo Del Rio.

This musical production festival will also include many new musical groups and singers, popular throughout the Latin American listening and viewing world who will appear for the first time in the United States ... including famous singing artist Lilian Dominguez.

The festival is keyed as a family affair with a ticket range running from $1.00 to $4.50. Children's tickets are half price.

Safety Day In Pacifica

Safety, as it relates to children, will be discussed at length October 17 by the Pacifica Safety Commission, representatives of the Laguna Salada School District and the PTA coordinating committee.

Laguna Salada District Supterintendent Fred Lucas outlined topics for the session for district trustees Tuesday.

Among the subjects to be discussed:

—What are the problems of the City Safety Commission? How are they met? What restrictions are there?

—What are the safety problems and hazards in the various neighborhoods surrounding the schools and how can these be met?

—What precautions are taken by the school district in providing for the safety and welfare of the children?

FLOWERS

Gardens of flowers, whose cut blooms go to markets throughout Europe, surround Nice on the French Riviera.

Directory To Go To Press

The Bay Area's first complete directory of health and welfare services is about to go to press.

Scheduled for mid-September publication, the big book over 350 pages — will describe the services provided by some 600 major public and voluntary agencies to the 3 million population of the 5-county core area at an annual expenditure of approximately half a billion dollars.

A "first of its kind," the Bay Area Directory of Health and Welfare Services will replace directories that have been published by five separate organizations in the counties of Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo. Five thousand copies will be printed.

Announcement that the $5.25 price per copy — including sales tax and annual updating service for two years — reduces to $4.73 for pre-publication purchase has resulted in more than 2,000 orders to date, according to Paul Akana, Executive Director of the United Crusade — supported Bay Area Social Planning Council, which is publishing the book.

The orders have come from a cross-section of the regional community, he said, including doctors, educators, clergymen, counselors, attorneys, civic and government leaders, union officials, business and industry executives and personnel officers — as well as social and health agencies.

Based on this unprecedented response, Akana pointed out that it is entirely likely the first printing may be "completely sold out" before publication, and urged those interested in buying the unique reference book to place their orders now in order to avoid disappointment.

Purchase arrangements at the reduced price — as well as an additional reduction to $4.57 for 25 or more directories — may be made until September 15, with the Bay Area Social Planning Council's Information and Referral Service, 577 — 14th Street, Oakland 94612.

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO PAL Kingsmen Drum and Bugle Corps last Saturday took an overnight trip to Gridley to perform in that city's parade, which it one of the SSF Corps' major events of the year. The Corps then will travel to Pinole for a parade and color guard contest Sunday.

Marching with the group were Linda Williams, new color guard captain, and Janet Cartopasse, co-captain. Among the recent summer performances of the Corps were at the Navato parade, where they captured second place for the Drum and Bugle Corps event; the Redwood City Parade July 4, where the Corps placed first and the senior color guard also took first place; at the Santa Rosa Field contest July 13, where the group took second place honors and in Antioch August 6 where first place was captured in the parade division.

School Bus Cost Drops

The school bus cost per mile in the Laguna Salada School District in Pacifica decreased from .711 to .642 last year, District Supt. Fred Lucas reported to trustees Tuesday.

This is a "low figure, despite unusual climatic and topographic handicaps," Lucas said.

Voter Signup

Mrs. Margaret Becker, a deputy county registrar, announced that a table at which to register potential North County voters will be set up on weekends, September 1 to September 21, at the Westlake Food Market in the Westlake Shopping Center, Daly City. ..

Mrs. Becker said her schedule each weekend at the booth would be:

Friday, 4-8 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

September 21 is the final day in which to register.

Persons who must register if they plan to vote are those who failed to cast ballots in the last general election, who have changed their addresses and those who have become naturalized citizens since the last general election, Mrs. Becker said.

Beer Marinated Steaks 'Choice'

Prime quality steaks, as every backyard chef knows, grill to utter perfection over charcoal. But prime meats are both rare and costly for regular use. However the more economical cuts, treated with a proper marinade, can rival the choicest steak in flavor, juiciness and tenderness.

For steaks that will be charcoal grilled, by far the best marinade is beer. Men who've taken over the summer cooking chores for years can attest that a seasoned beer or ale marinade penetrates the meat with a tenderizing influence — and adds a delicious, subtle flavor.

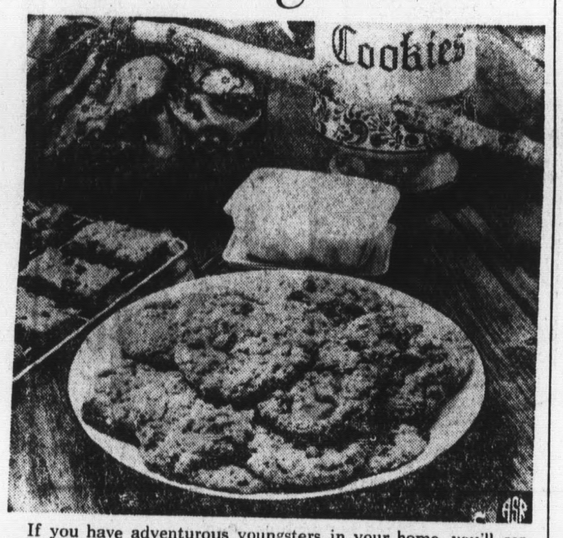
It's easy, too, because what BBQ meal is ever complete without a plentiful supply of the thirst-quenching amber brew?

Beer Marinated Steaks

6 individual steaks, cut thick
2 onions, sliced
½ clove garlic, minced
¼ cup salad oil
1 (12-oz.) can of beer, about

Early in the day, lay steaks in a single layer in a shallow pan. Arrange onion slices on top. Add garlic to oil and dribble over steaks. Pour on enough beer to completely cover meat. Let marinate several hours. When ready to cook, remove steaks and grill to taste over white-hot charcoal, brushing with marinade during cooking. Yield: 6 servings.

Cookie Jar Treat For Youngsters



If you have adventurous youngsters in your home, you'll certainly want to keep a well-stocked cookie jar all year round. Oatmeal cookies are a proven favorite for good munching. It's amazingly easy to make plenty of goodies when you use Chiffon soft-type margarine containing liquid safflower oil. The delicate texture and flavor assures marvelous baking results. And it's always ready to use — no need for creaming or waiting for it to soften at room temperature. To make Huck Finn Oatmeal Cookies you simply mix all the ingredients until well blended and the cookies are ready for baking.

The soft margarine recommended in this recipe contains a high percentage of pure liquid safflower oil which means it is lower in saturated fats than any other spread on the market, including the corn oil ones.

Huck Finn Oatmeal Cookies

1 tub (1 cup) soft-type margarine containing liquid safflower oil
2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups quick-cooking oats
1 cup raisins or chopped nuts

Measure all ingredients into mixing bowl. Beat at low speed of electric mixer or mix by hand until well blended. Drop by heaping teaspoons 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in 350°F. oven 12 to 15 minutes. Remove immediately from baking sheet and cool.
YIELD: 3 to 4 dozen cookies.

For a Sizzling Summer Evening

On sizzling summer evenings, broiling or cooking on the outdoor grill is the answer to the party-giver's plight. Spiced Jelly Lamb Kabobs with Almond Rice, slightly exotic, offer a gourmet treat for guests.

Since so much of the preparation can be done early in the day, the kabobs are easy on the hostess, too. Apple jelly, aromatic spices and delicate lamb are the secrets of this party success.

Spiced Jelly Lamb Kabobs With Almond Rice

- 1 jar (10 ounce) apple or currant jelly (about 1 cup)
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- ½ teaspoon each ginger, coriander and salt
- ¼ teaspoon each ground cloves and pepper
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 pound boneless lamb (shoulder or leg), cut into 1-inch cubes
- 4 small onions (cooked until tender half-way through) cut in half crosswise
- 1 large orange, peeled and cut into chunks
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch

To prepare kabobs. Combine jelly, garlic, ginger, coriander, cloves, salt, pepper and vinegar; heat slowly until jelly melts. Pour over lamb cubes. Cover; marinate in refrigerator 1 to 2 hours. Drain meat. Save marinade. Alternate lamb cubes, onion halves and orange chunks on 4 long skewers. Brush with marinade. Broil 3 to 4 inches from heat until meat is the desired degree of doneness, 12 to 15 minutes. Turn skewers once during broiling. Stir cornstarch into remaining marinade; blend well. Cook until clear and thickened. Serve over seasoned or almond rice. Yield: 4 servings.

Light-hearted, low-calorie, and luscious describes this do-ahead, dreamy dessert.

Thanks to an important new development in the dietary sweetening field, this dessert masterpiece has been calorie-reduced to less than half its original calorie count. Secret is a brand new product of man's inventiveness, Sweetness & Light, a sparkling, granulated sweetener that looks and tastes like sugar, yet contains only one-fifth the calories.

Chilled Lemon-Lime Soufflé
(Calorie-Trimmed)

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 2 cups Sweetness & Light low-calorie granulated sweetener
- 8 eggs, separated
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon grated lime rind
- ½ cup lemon juice
- ½ cup lime juice
- ½ cup nonfat dry milk
- ½ cup ice water

Fasten a 6-inch band of foil around a 1½-quart soufflé dish, allowing 4 inches to stand above top of dish. Soften gelatin in cold water. In top of double boiler, combine Sweetness & Light, well-beaten egg yolks, salt, lemon rind, lime rind, lemon juice and lime juice. Cook over hot water, stirring occasionally until thick. Remove from heat; add softened gelatin, stirring to dissolve. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into gelatin mixture. Combine dry milk and ice water; beat on high speed of mixer until stiff, about 10 minutes; fold into gelatin mixture. Gently spoon into prepared soufflé dish; chill several hours or until set. Remove foil collar before serving. Garnish, if desired, with low-calorie whipped topping and berries.

Makes 10 servings, each 130 CALORIES; 9 grams protein; 4.5 grams fat; 12.5 grams carbohydrate. (With sugar 269 CALORIES.)

Annual King's Bowl Carnival Thru Sept. 5

THE SECOND ANNUAL KING'S BOWL Bowling Carnival, running through September 5, is proving a huge success. General Manager Fred Masberg is offering open bowling at 30 cents a line, both day and night; Bowling Shop professional Red Elkins is listing specially-reduced prices on bowling balls, and the plush Blue Peacock Lounge is serving draft beer for a quarter a glass, cocktails for 50 cents. Also reduced prices in the snack bar on certain items during the Carnival. Bowling fans: come early and enjoy dinner in the Blue Peacock restaurant, then take advantage of the special Carnival prices while they last . . . Judy Mass, topless dancer at the Galaxie on SF's Broadway, corner of Kearny, just smiles when men tell her she should be in movies, she is so attractive. Judy has been featured in three movies that will be released this winter.

MEET THE BOSS — Emerson Murfee, owner-operator of the Villa Chartier, Lanai, and Lanai Liquor Store, pauses as he strolls from one business enterprise to another. Even the Tiki God in the background seems to reflect a smiling mood. The menu in Mr. Murfee's hand contains the many recipe secrets that go to make the Lanai one of the West's most famous Polynesian restaurants, where you may enjoy food of the Indies, Orient, and Hawaii, and sip your favorite tropical drinks.

YOLANDA'S TERMINAL CAFE and Lounge, in South San Francisco, has gained quite a deserving reputation for old-fashioned Italian family-style dinners. But rating equal billing are the noontime meals. Yolanda, the petite owner, offers 95 cent sandwiches of almost every ingredient, and $1.59 Plate Lunches which are certain to make the mid-day stop palate satisfying. Lunch is served seven days a week. For those desiring such, Plankmaster Jack McManus is on hand to dispense your favorite appetizers . . . New Southern restaurant co-owner Nick Sbarra is proud of the staff he supervises — and rightfully so. Although not all Southerners by birth, they have all been trained in the "art" of Southern hospitality. Tender cornfed chicken, fried Southern fashion, accompanied by whipped potatoes and Dixie gravy, and baked Virginia ham, with candied yams and Dixie sauce are time-tested favorites here. Meat fanciers should take note of the roast Prime Rib of Beef which is served Saturday and Sunday only.

WESCON has almost completely taken over the large convention facilities at Fred and Jerry Rapp's Holiday Inn, South San Francisco. While one of their divisions, GTI Electronic and Scientific Display, was meeting in the Embarcadero Room, last Monday, other meetings were under way in both the Alta Mira and Franciscan Rooms, plus a private banquet in the Executive Room . . . The cuisine at L'Auberge is French, but the waiters are multi-lingual. Karl Bendel is a native of Czechoslavakia and speaks German, Polish, Czech and Russian in addition to English . . . Murray Horn, the Canadian-born bass player who brings a refreshing rounded fare of listening and vocalizing and musical know-how to please a varied type of audience, concludes his engagement in the Palo Alto Cabana Hotel Monday, August 28. Fem singer Marilee Myers shares the vocal spots with him. . . .

YOUR NEXT COMPANY PARTY, organization luncheon, or banquet will be a hit if you schedule it in the magnificent, new banquet rooms at the Carrousel. Chef Chuck Pierce and maitre d'Antoine de Vos will arrange the ideal menu and arrangements for your group, ranging from 20 to 200. It's not too early to make Winter and holiday reservations . . . While Mary Lou Francis, the vivacious hostess-co-owner of Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City, is back at the family's Wisconsin resort for a brief vacation. Plankman Blacky McMannus will be running the show, ably assisted by Vi, who is acting as official hostess . . . Located on Lorton Avenue in the heart of downtown Burlingame, La Touraine restaurant is only minutes away from most residential areas on the Peninsula. Gourmets are finding it is no longer necessary to drive to the City to enjoy excellent French cuisine.

Nick's In Pacifica A Dine Out Legend

The legend of the Gust family and their Nick's restaurant show place in Pacifica, has spread far and wide. It doesn't seem to take long for Peninsula newcomers to learn what the "patron pleasing" attractions are in this awe inspiring coastal setting.

Whether it's food (fresh sea food, fowl or hearty steaks), the view of the Pacific from the dining room, or the first-rate entertainment, Nick and Lorraine and their enterprising family provide it.

Don Kelly at the organ Wednesday through Sunday, the Dick Snyder Combo supplys the "soft shoe" dance tunes Friday and Saturday, and when saucy Mary Ann Hay takes the bandstand you would think it was the female counterpart of Jolson taking the mike.

Kathy Ercoli Joins The Staff

It didn't take long for the Ercoli family to initiate their newest member to the ways of their famed Leaning Tower. Kathy, Lou Ercoli's new bride, is the lovely hostess who now greets and seats the hungry throngs who visit this South San Francisco Italian restaurant.

Dave and Gertrude Gold of Burlingame (he's vice president of Metro Parking Corporation) entertained Tony and Sid Nitz of Chicago at a Wellington Steak dinner held at Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco.

'Distinctive' best describes the elegant interior of the Villa Italica restaurant in San Carlos, where Owner Vittorio Cantalupo has added a personal touch to the classic decor. Soft red carpeting, expensive table linen, and fine glassware are dining room enhancements. Blended together, they provide a worthy setting for chef Arturo Volpini's magnificient Italian dinner creations.

Entertainment In "High C" At Vince's Italian Restaurant

If you just happened to be passing by Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant around 10 p.m. Friday and thought you heard the strains of twin accordions and some "high C" vocaling, you were so right. Vince's long-time friend, Sil Savant, a well-known musician-conductor from down Hollywood way, dropped in Vince's for a big "Hi" and, as is his habit, took along his accordion and trumpet.

In less time than it takes "Big Nick" to prepare an order of Spaghetti and Meatballs, Vince gathered up his musical "tools" from home and the fun began. Vince on the accordion, Sil Savant tending to the trumpet blasts and doubling on accordion. The fun, and Vince, lasted until 1 a.m. — and the cocktail lounge was jammed with a happy crowd. Oh yes, Sil Savant just celebrated his seventy-third birthday.

Many "Extras" At Bruno's

Chef Bruno Fava, of Bruno's in downtown San Mateo, has several luncheon "doings" that perhaps you don't know about. Catering to businessmen and downtown merchants, luncheon selections start at $1.25, with a special Secretary's Lunch at 95 cents. Bruno will also quote a special price for any item on his menu when serving groups of 10, or more. Banquet facilities accommodate up to 60 persons in complete privacy.

To entice your taste buds, "Bright Lights" ran the complete dinner menu of Fred Winters and Norris Palmer's new Carito's Garden restaurant, located in the Carlmont Shopping Center, Belmont (former site of the Charm Garden), in last Friday's Times' edition. To again excite your appetite, feast your eyes on Carito's luncheon menu of good ol' American dishes.

Joe Piccinini, owner of Oreste's in San Francisco, is in Europe for a two-weeks' stay in the area of Tuscana, Italy, and will study new food ideas for his restaurant's recipe file.

Besides pleasing a record number of hungry patrons with countless Roabee sandwiches, Roabee "baron" Joe Acosta has enhanced his award-designed Redwood Room with the addition of attractive waitresses. Judging from the smiles of departing patrons, Acosta chalks up another "pleaser."

FOR A REALLY IMPRESSIVE dinner setting, whether to entertain a business client or the favorite lady in your life, it's the Upper Level of the Villa Hotel which completely fills the bill. "Just for Steaks," is the one liner that aptly describes what to expect in the Upper Level. Veteran restaurant goers are finding that the food and service is par excellent. After dinner, step in the Villa Lounge, where the George Cerrutti Trio gives out with dreamy dance sounds . . . talk of the Montgomery Street crowd: The many delicious dishes offered by Chef Sheow on the Iron Duke's luncheon menu, which includes Leg of Lamb with a special mint flavored dressing, and Stuffed Filet of Sole with seafood and spinach. . . .

Handsome Rick Gordon should be back at his blending duties at Fabbro's in Redwood City, tonight, "sporting" a tan, as well as a few exotic "trade cocktail secrets" learned in the Islands during his two-week Hawaiian vacation.

Smiling Woody Woodington, organist in the lounge of the Fork 'n' Cork, is a genuinely happy person. His nostalgic sing-along tunes take patrons down memory lane. Appearing Wednesday through Saturday nights, Woody's "corner" in the beautiful, new "Cork" room is one of the happiest spots on the Peninsula.

Texas-Style Enchiladas El Patio Special

The El Patio's Texas Enchilada is as unique as the garden setting interior of Jim and Shelly Llewellyn's charming Mexican restaurant in Menlo Park. Three layers in size, an enchilada "Texas-style" is a combination of beef and cheese enchiladas with onions, topped with the El Patio's enchilada sauce, cheese and two eggs.

The way Chef Duey Wong prepares Breaded Veal Cutlets at his downtown San Mateo Pierre's restaurant had your Bright Lighter asking for the recipe. But to no avail — Dewey says it's a secret.

Arthur Samish "held court" at Lew Lehr's Steak House in SF's Marina before a large gathering of friends telling tales of California politics during Samish's hey day.

Salads Also Are A Black Angus Feat

Much has been said about the wide selection of "All you can eat" hot entrees at the Black Angus Chuck Wagon. Yet, another feat for which "Wagonmaster" Carlo Fasolo is much praised is his wide range of cool, crisp salads, which includes several jello combinations and flavors.

Taste tip: Cordon Bleu (Breaded Veal, stuffed with ham and Swiss Cheese) served at The Matterhorn in Burlingame. Chef Wilfried Blarer's exceptional culinary background is particularly evident with the preparation of this dish.

Much of that authentic Greek singing and dancing talent at the Balkan Village in Los Altos is discovered in Greece by owner Louie Gundunas, who spends his vacation there. He scouts the taverns of Athens, the Peloponnesus, Piraeus and the outer islands for undiscovered entertainers and brings them back with him.

A "bit of ol' London" came to Daly City, recently, with the opening of the new London Fish 'n' Chips Shoppe on Junipero Serra Blvd. Manager Sandy Lynch, a Scotsman, celebrated the opening of his Shoppe by providing free fish or shrimp and chips with every paid order. There's also a "take-out" service. To place your order, call 756-9979. Then drop by to pick it up.

Lions Visited By Governor Of District

Dr. Chang Wah Lee, district governor, Lions International, visited the Daly City-Colma Lions' Club at its regular luncheon meeting at Toto's Pizzeria Restaurant, 1913 Junipera Serra, Daly City.

As District Governor, Dr. Lee has the responsibility of visiting each of the 37 clubs in San Francisco, San Mateo County and Palo Alto areas and report to Lions International essential information pertaining to the progress and administration of each club.

Bob Bernicchi, president, Daly City-Colma Lions' welcomed the District Governor and his entourage, which included Ngai Ho Hong, cabinet secretary; Dr. Robert Helgesen, deputy district governor; and Gin Gin Lee, cabinet treasurer.

Dr. Lee is a practicing dental surgeon in San Francisco and a well known leader of the S.F. Chinatown community. A charter member of the Chinatown Lions Club, he is a retired Lieutenant Colonel of the U.S. Army and served in World Wars One and Two. He is also a member of several Masonic Orders and veterans groups.

For Dr. Chang's visit, the Daly City-Colma Lions rolled out the Red Carpet. It had almost 100 per cent attendance; Presented a gavel (with the inscription reading "Presented by the Daly City-Colma LYONS (instead of Lions) Club to Dr. Chang, etc."; Dr. Chang cut a huge cake sent for the occasion by Wendell Kretz, owner, Golden Brown Bakery, a past president of the Sunset Lions Club of S.F.; and a large canvas banner, complete with a life-like sketch of Dr. Chang was painted by George Calegari, a talented maintenance man who works for the North County Sanitation District.

250 Attracted to Combo Festival in Daly City

The Combo Festival co-sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department and the Westlake Music Store at the War Memorial Building was attended by more than 250 persons.

Six combos played — "The Living End," "Delayed Reaction," "Royal Vikings," "Contrast," "Velvet Staircase," and "Just Sound." To be eligible, all the contestants had to be under 16 years of age, and be from Daly City or the surrounding area.

A former musician, Ray Savage, chief of the Broadmoor Police Department, announced the event. Four teachers judging the event were Andy Morblin, Bill Goyette, Ed Penna, and Bill Brown.

"Delayed Reaction," featuring Colin Macauley, Mark Borelli, Connie Borelli, Jay Cochrane, Denise De Luca and Brad Schimek, were the grand trophy winners.

Special awards were given to Connie Borelli and Denise De Luca for being the best vocalists.

Russ Golub, of "Just Sound," was picked as the best lead guitarist.

An eight-year-old drummer, David Gamache, of "Royal Vikings," was given a special trophy for showing the best potential.

All participants were given Award Certificates, and each group was awarded a trophy.

Co-ordinators for the recreation department were Pete Vallarino, Tom Martinez, and Jack Campbell. Co-ordinators for the Westlake Music Store were Pete Heath, Howard Loeffler, and Frank Markovich.

There may be other similar events in this area, a spokesman said.

Jewels Found At Airport

An Alameda woman yesterday afternoon claimed a leather zipper case containing more than $125,000 worth of jewelry which a 54-year-old janitress had found a week and a half ago lying on a washbasin at the San Francisco International Airport.

Assembly Lines For Super Spies

By DALE BURGESS

Once upon a time a hero was born, shaped by circumstance or created by a novelist.

Now, in the paperback novel world at least, many are evolved in conferences and produced to specifications by teams of writers, like the sports car he drives.

One of these composite supermen is Don Miles. Avon Books hopes he will replace the late Ian Fleming's James Bond. Another is Nick Carter — Killmaster, whom Award Books is promoting for the same spot.

Lyle Kenyon Engel would applaud either succession.

As "Larry Kenyon" he is listed as author of the Miles series. The Nick Carter jackets don't even name an author, but it's the Engel team. Both series come out of Engel's shop on West 58th Street in New York.

The 52-year-old-producer has been in business more than 25 years, turning our packages of fiction, nonfiction and music for a dozen publishers, recording companies, movies and broadcasting. He also publishes automotive books and magazines.

From this background, Engel concluded that the American public likes sex, spies and the blood sports in its light reading. It gets all three in the Don Miles novels, pouring out of the presses since April at the rate of one a month.

Miles is a composite of Carroll Shelby, Dan Buerney, Phil Hill, James Bond, A. J.Foyt, Jr., Doc Savage, Juan Fangio and Cassanova.

He is a Texas oil millionaire who builds and drives his own racing and sports cars. He has won the world championship twice, once for Ferrari and once in his own Panther.

He is the world's greatest lover without even trying.

He also is an ace agent for an American intelligence service so secret even the CIA doesn't know about it.

Miles is pinned, wired and patched together as the result of dozens of racing accidents. He estimates one-sixteenth of his

Javelin Is Inspiration To World

They probably didn't intend it that way, but, when the Greeks elevated the javelin from a war and hunting weapon to an envied place in the 708 (BC) Olympics, they started something.

Ever since, man has been trying to throw the javelin straighter and farther.

Now, inspired by the javelin's clean, arching flight, American Motors Corporation has proudly given the name to the two-door sports hardtop it will introduce this fall. AM's Javelin represents a new-generation entry in the sporty car field.

While details about the automobile won't be available until later, its namesake has a long history.

Since the Greeks first used it in a pentathlon event in 708 it has evolved until the one used in Olympic and national competition throughout the worldtoday is a spear of wood or metal with a sharp point. Its weight must not be less than 1.32 pounds and its length not less than 7' 2-⅝".

At the turn of the century javelin competition was dominated by the Scandinavians with throws under 200 feet. Distances increased, with the Scandinavians still in command, until the 1950's when the American, Franklin (Bud) Held wiped out a Finnish record with a throw of 263' 10" in 1953.

Other modern javelin stars have been Cy Young (1952 Olympic champion) and William Miller of the United States; Janusz Sidlo of Poland and Egil Danielsen of Norway.

In 1964, another Norwegian, Terje Pedersen, exceeded the 300-foot mark with a throw of 300' 11½'.

Take Driver Applications

Sandy Parsons, director of Driver training for the San Francisco Region of SCCA has announced that applications are now being accepted for the 1967-'68 Competition Drivers School.

The school, acclaimed as one of the finest, accepts only 80 students. This enables all of the students to receive individual instruction. The course ranges from the proper way to set up a race car, the safety musts,and the intricities of high speed driving. In the 3 ground school sessions they are given via talks, blackboard illustrations, pictures, the informatio n that the students will then put into practice on the track. SCCA rules require that before issuance of a license this school be successfully completed. Upon completion of the school the driver is issued a novice permit that starts him on his career in road racing. Deadline for the school is September 15.

gross weight is prosthetic hardware.

Women find his cars irresistible. Miles prefers big blonds, but seldom repulses the others. The sex scenes, which take up substantial wordage, are as stylized as "Swan Lake."

Female enemy agents frequently pull him out of bloody messes. The baddies almost got him at Monte Carlo by blowing up the men's dressing room at a nudist beach. But he happened to be visiting a friend in the ladies' dressing room.

The opposition, never quite what it seems, has included a gang of German motorcyclists, a mad Mediterranean shipping magnate and a bunch of renegade American Indian squaws.

Miles saved Western Europe in "Challenge at Le Mans," preserved the entire world in "Countdown at Monaco," blocked a Chinese-incited nuclear war between the United States and Russia in "Revenge at Indy." and merely spared the Ruhr Valley's 8,000,000 inhabitants in "The Devil's Ring."

One of his minor feats was driving a souped-up Volkswagen over the Alps at an average speed of 90 m.p.h.

Most of the auto racing sequences are reasonably authentic, but of four books, built around four international races, three end before the race starts. The exception was the Grand Prix of Monaco- Don won.

Engel says, "I come up with the lead character and create his world.

Road System Is Changing Habits

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The Interstate Road System is changing both driving and vacationing habits of Americans, coast-to-coast and border-to-border.

The minimum 4-lane highways system that will link, serve and enrich 90 per cent of all U.S. cities larger than 50,000 population has created alternatives for drivers as well.

With about 23,000 miles of the 41,000-mile system complete, vacationers now think of express driving 600 miles or so, alternating with stopovers for a day on self-guided city tours, beltway sightseeing, or exploring the so-called heritage trails across the country.

St. Louis, traditional Gateway to the West (or East, depending on destination), now ranks with Washington, Baltimore, Boston and San Francisco for access to downtown sights or countryside exploring offered by beltway or by-pass system girding the city.

Now the motorist covering great strides from California via famed Route 66—Interstate 40-44—can zip from St. Louis' beltway downtown for sightseeing musts like Jefferson National Expansion Memorial or an evening out at Gas light Square. He can also find lodging just off beltway, Interstate 244 to the west, and explore famed Meramec Caverns on Route 66, within a half-hour of the beltway.

San Francisco visitors can explore both downtown and surround-Bay country via a 49-mile drive, which averts bottlenecks and affords best scenic views. Other cities with do-it-yourself tours for motorists, utilizing freeways and scenic-historic sightseeing routes include Boston, Baltimore, Norfolk, New Orleans, Seattle and Portland. Boston's Freedom Trail leads to Ben Franklin's birthplace, Paul Revere's home, and site of the Boston Massacre, for example. In Baltimore, the Star-Spangled Trail leads to Fort McHenry, where Francis Scott Key wrote the National Anthem.

Beauty Had Free Ride

The free use of a Toyota Corona for two months was the grand prize in last month's "Miss New York State" finals of the "Miss World" pageant.

Miss Pat McKeegan, who represented the city of Nassau in the New York State contest, was chosen New York's queen and representative to the Miss United States contest in Baltimore later this month.

The Miss World finals will be held in London later this year.

The Corona prize was arranged through TMD's Eastern Regional headquarters and Vernon Bennett of Toyota's ad agency, Clinton E. Frank, Inc.

Studded Tires Mostly Legal

While the nation has sweltered in midsummer heat, legislators in snow-belt states have debated the safety advantages of studded winter tires with the result that every snow state but one has now legalized studded tires.

The lone holdout state is Virginia, according to Ed J. Challinor, president of the Big Four Division of Studebaker, leading producers of related lines of tire studs and studding equipment. Legislation to permit studded tires is still under study there.

All six snow states where tire studs were banned last year, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Illinois, Oregon and California have recently passed remedial legislation to remove archaic "tractor lug" laws from their statutes, Challinor said.

Illinois was the most recent state to act when Gov. Otto Kerner yesterday signed into law a bill permitting use of studded tires between Oct. 1 and May 1, the usual interval in other states.

Today, only nine states out of 50, Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, south Carolina, Hawaii and Virginia still prohibit the use of studded tires. Of these only the northern areas of Arizona and Virginia have problems with icy highways.

An increasing number of states are considering laws to require mandatory use of studded tires on school busses and similar vehicles where skidding on ice can produce traffic catastrophes, Challinor said. As recently as January of this year, a total of 16 states barred studded tires, and as recently as 1965 only a handful of New England states allowed motorists to use this newest winter driving safety aid.

No Room Today For Wheel Failure

When human safety is involved, there is no room for failures which can be prevented. Makers of autos and suppliers of parts know the importance of eliminating failures and are, in many cases, using nondestructive tests on every part they manufacture.

The Saginaw Steering Gear Division of General Motors recognizing that human beings can make mistakes, has installed automatic testing devices to inspect 100 per cent of the critical steering components it manufactures, according to Production Magazine.

Metal used to make automatic steering pump rotors is checked by an eddy current scanning unit so sensitive it can detect any crack larger than a slight scratch. If a crack is found, the piece is automatically rejected by the machine.

Worm gears for manual steering gears are checked by a magnetic comparator which determines whether the heat treatment has produced proper case and core hardness in heavy gears. Originally installed to prevent gears made of the wrong steel from being used, it also spots pieces which have not been properly heat treated.

An ultransonic nondestructive device is used to check tie rod end blanks early in the manufacturing process for internal defects such as cracks and inclusions. If a defect is discovered, the part is shunted out of the production line. Fundamentally, the idea of nondestructive testing is to spot trouble so that immediate action can be taken to correct the condition.

Tires Now Are Given X-Ray Test

AKRON, OHIO—Nondestructive testing is very important at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, where Blue Streak Speedway tires get 198 quality control checks before they are released.

Because some tires got by with hidden flaws or potential weaknesses, Goodyear had a radiographic unit installed. Each tire is now subjected to x-ray tests and there have been no reports of internal failures since this equipment was put in use.

"On the Street Where Burlingame and San Mateo Meet"

Road Test Magazine Hails Toyota Hardtop

Road Test magazine's October edition, which hits the nation's newsstands next week, hails the new Toyota Corona Hardtop as "the hottest performer in its price class . . . Toyota's detail and quality control is second to none."

The only major automobile magazine in the United States which carries no advertising, Road Test is considered to be one of the more objective and critical evaluators of passenger cars.

The magazine reports that Toyota is going to great lengths to find out what the American buyer wants and then tailoring its export production to meet their demand.

A quick look at Toyota's sales record will substantiate the magazine's evaluation, as the company has skyrocketed from 21st place among imports in the U.S. to fourth place in less than two years.

"Presented in approximately the same price bracket as the VW-Karman Ghia," Road Test reports, "the Toyota Corona Hardtop—at $1985 POE—offers advanced design, brisk performance and superior passenger and luggage capacity. Add to this good economy and attention to creature comforts ,and it becomes easy to see why Toyota is rapidly becoming a dominant factor in the U.S. import car field."

In reporting upon the Corona Hardtop's perforance, Road Test magazine says:

"The heart of the Toyota Corona Hardtop lies in its 90-horsepowered power plant. This is the same engine used in the Corona sedan and has proved to be an uncomplaining reliable unit. With 1900 cc's and overhead valves, the 4-cylinder engine will accelerate from a standing start to 60 m.p.h. in under 17 seconds and reach a top speed of 90-plus m.p.h.

"Torque rating is 110 pounds at 2600 r.p.m., which assures good low-end pulling characteristics."

Highlights of Road Test's evaluation of the new Toyota's handling and roadability characteristics include:

"Can't help but out-perform by a substantial margin those in its approximate price class . . . performs effortlessly at freeway cruising speeds . . . outstanding handling on winding mountain roads . . . easiest of the imports to switch to from the domestic variety . . . brake response is quite positive and a power assist would only be a waste of money."

In concluding its six-page evaluation, Road Test says that "in every important area of consideration, the Toyota Corona Hardtop rates extremely high for a car in this $1985 price range . . . styling is eye-pleasing and tailored for the American taste . . . power, performance, roadability and handling are all more than equal to the demands of U.S. highways and American traffic . . . it's a hard car to beat for the money!"

Metcalf-Mayer In A Major Expansion

Metcal-Mayer, under the direction of dynamic Matt Reis, well known automobile executive has underway a gigantic expansion and remodelling program designed to make the popular Cougar-Mercury-Lincoln agency one of the largest major automotive firms in the Bay Area.

During the expansion and remodeling program Reis has placed the entire stock of cars on the market for a fraction of their regular sale price in order to make room for the carpenters, plasterers and other skilled craftsmen on the job.

"If you don't mind the stacks of lumber, we will make the inconvenience worth while for you," Reis said, "by putting you in a brand new '67 Cougar, Mercury or Lincoln at discounts that run up to $1300."

Reis pointed out that 1967 has been the greatest year in the history of Mercury-Lincoln cars in the 20 year record of Metcalf-Mayer as well as nationally and th '67 models are superb in power, luxury, safety and economy of operation.

"Then when we introduced the Cougar, it literally swept the field in the sports car class and was chosen "Car of the Year" by Car and Driver Magazine.

"The Cougar not only outperforms its rivals, has superb styling that dazzles the eye and get-a-way to make your head swim," Reis declared, adding that "... and the price is only $50 more than the smaller rivals."

Reis said that he has secured another freight train load of '67 Cougars, Mercury and Lincoln to meet the demand, so selection of colors and motors is complete, but with the remodeling program in full swing they must be sold at give - away prices.

Reis also pointed out that for 20 years Metcalf-Mayer has had a policy of giving exceptional trade-in allowances that surprise most owners. The firm is open daily from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays until 6 p.m.

Metcalf-Mayer is located a the busy, automotive corner of California Drive and Peninsula Ave. ... the street where Burlingame and San Mateo meet.

Adjoining the big showroom and modern service facilities is the used car lot which is brilliantly lighted for night showing of cars. "The used cars that we are offering are only the top values among those we take in trades," Reis said, "And our customers are the kind of people who take care of their car."

MATT REIS

Immediately upon taking a car in trade, Metcalf-Mayer puts it through a complete, systematic and scientific analysis and thorough reconditioning to put it in 100 per cent condition, ready for the road and thousands of miles of satisfactory service at a huge savings.

Metcalf-Mayer will be open up until Sunday night at 6 o'clock to provide you with Labor Day transportation, a second car for school use for the students in the family or a fine Cougar-Mercury or Lincoln for the winter just ahead that will assure the family the maximum in safety and comfort.

The credit at Metcalf-Mayer is liberal and their financial consultants will tailor a deal to fit your income. If you have reasonably good credit a car can be arranged at little or nothing down with payments of your own choosing.

Mat Reis is also an expert on leasing and has announced that the Metcalf-Mayer Mutual Lease Plan is the finest ever offered. "We will write you a check for your present car up to $2500 and then put you in a brand new Lincoln, Mercury or Cougar at a low monthly lease. At the end of two years, turn it in and forget it, release it at a lower rate or trade it for a 1969 new model and continue the arrangement and have cash in hand, too.

Ford Eyes Torso Belts

Ford Motor Company has announced it has suspended installation of shoulder harnesses as standard equipment in its 1968 passenger cars pending a government review of the effectiveness of such devices.

Installation of the shoulder harnesses is mandatory for all passenger cars sold in the United States under Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 208 scheduled to become effective January 1, 1968. Ford started installing the harnesses at the beginning of 1968-model production—well ahead of the January 1 deadline.

However, the Federal Highway Administration reported last week it has information which "raises a question as to whether upper torso belts should be mandatory on 1968 model motor vehicles."

Ford said it will cooperate in a Federal Highway Administration review of the advantages and possible disadvantages of the upper torso safety belts by providing pertinent results of its tests with these belts.

British Balloon Like A Kite Without A Tail

Motorists on California Drive can't help but notice a large white zeplin shaped balloon floating peacefully over British Motors in Burlingame.

Peacefully, that is, as long as the wind isn't blowing. One day last week the wind blew and the balloon behaved like a kite without a tail.

After several erratic movements and wild dives it finally became entangled in a light post on the lot of a dealership across the street.

The owner of that domestic car lot looked distinctly unhappy about the whole affair and was heard muttering something about MG's, balloons, traffic and police.

HILLSDALE DODGE WANTS YOU! That's right! Northern California's newest Dodge dealership wants you to stop by soon and get acquainted with the new owners, the sales force, and the huge brand new service department that promises immediate service and no waiting!
